NEW YORK, October 2, 1871.

THE TAMMANY FRAUDS.

The secret accounts giving the expenditures of the city government for the first quarter of the present year, which are published to-day, include the costs for appropriations, the special and trust account and the revenue bonds. The city pay rolls show that immense sums are paid to fictitious names. In many instances persons receiving salaries never perform any service, and some are incapable of doing it. The names of a few professional bruisers are to be seen upon the pay rolls. Jim Cusick and Joe Coburn are said to receive their monthly stipend under an assumed name. Michael Norton, a State Senator, is said to have no less than twelve of these lucrative sinecures. The investigation of these matters has caused the greatest consternation among the city pay receivers. The salaries for the Department of Public Works make a yearly aggregate of nearly four hundred thousand dollars. The payment to the Legislative Departments makes nearly three hundred thousand dollars, and the cost for the annual services at the Mayor's office is nearly fifty thousand dollars.

The Tribune is demanding the prosecution of the ring thieves, and says that there must be produced more tangible evidences of crime than these figures represent. The figures do not show criminality clearly, standing alone, and they will send no rogues to the State prison. The publication of these figures has certainly killed the party that perpetrated these frauds. There is no doubt, however, that the course taken by the Citizen's Committee in securing a preliminary examination of suspected parties in open Court will result in laying a foundation for the commencement of the legal proceedings desired in this respect. The failure of the Board of Survisors delegate to the committee appointed by the Committee of Seventy power to make examinations of city officials is causing temporary disappointment, yet, in view of this action, this power is not now deemed to be absolutely necessary.

The Democratic journals of the State are still boldly denouncing the Tammany corruptionists. They nearly all say that the Tammany delegation should be excluded from the State Convention.

TROUBLE FOR MAYOR HALL.

An evening paper announces that Judge George C. Barrett made an application before Justice Rixby, of the Fifty-seventh street Police Court, for a warrant for the arrest of Mayor A. Oakey Hall, for alleged gross misdemeanor in diverting public funds, or permitting the same to be diverted from their legitimate use by signing warrants for the payment of millions of dollars for work that has not been done, said moneys having been paid to Ingersoll, Garvey, Miller, Smith, Bollard and others. The principal affidavit charges the crime under a special section of the act of the Legislature, which deprives the guilty one of office and forever prevents him from holding office of any kind. It is sworn to by W. S. Copeland, formerly an assistant bookkeeper in the Comptroller's office, and charges that the vouchers on which said warrants were issued were fraudulent, and so known to the Mayor. The Justice did not feel authorized to grant a warrant, as some respect should be shown to the official position of the Chief Magistrate of the city. He would send a notice to the Mayor to appear to-morrow morning. Should he neglect or refuse to appear, a warrant for his arrest would subsequently be issued. It was intimated that counsel will to-morrow apply for warrants of arrest against Wm. M. Tweed and others, for fraudulently appropriating public funds.

THAT INJUNCTION.

The injunction, as settled and modified by Judge Barnard this morning, authorizes the issue of bonds by the Departments of Parks, Docks and Charities, and by the Boards of Health, Fire and Police, under the provisions of the laws now existing, but the Judge directs that no bond or bonds for which the city or county is liable shall be issued without the approval of Andrew H. Green, Deputy Comptroller. He also restrains the Comptroller from paying any money or delivering any warrants for the payment of money without the consent first obtained of said Deputy. Green is to signify his assent to the issue of bonds by writing across the face thereof his approval and signature. Judge Barnard also restrains any payments on account of the court house at Harlem.

THE THIEVES GETTING NERVOUS.

Judge Barrett says that if it is found that any thieves who are to be proceeded against attempt to flee, they will be arrested immediately. He thinks himself not one of the ring, and will face the accusations. The proceedings are to be pressed with vigor. Throughout the day there has been great excitement in anticipation of the arrest of some of the ring leaders, all sort of rumors being afloat. It is definitely known that measures were concocted to arrest Hall and Tweed, and some others connected with the city frauds.

THE DEMOCRATS INSTRUCTED.

The World calls upon the Democratic State Convention to pledge the Democratic party of the State to a prompt repeal of the present city charter and the substitution of a new charter which will render flagrant abuses impossible. Anything else would be a mere lopping off of the twigs and branches, but this will cut up municipal corruption by the roots. The editor reminds the delegates that what our tax-payers need, is not denunciation, but relief, and relief can come only by sweeping away the bad and indefencible charter that fortifies these men in power.

EXPRESS SUIT.

Jno. H. Bacon, Jr., as treasurer of the New York and Boston Express Company, has begun a suit against Wm. B. Dinsmore as President of the Adams Express Company. The object of the suit is to enjoin the Adams Express Company from neglecting or refusing to receive and forward express matter of the New York and Boston Express Company upon the same terms that it (the Adams Company) usually charges other express companies or individuals.

POLITICAL EXCITEMENT.

There was excitement this morning in political circles over the forthcoming Rochester Convention. The Tammany Ring is working to secure its representation. The reform Democracy hope to smash the hopes of the ring with the country Democracy. The ring delegation is tainted. If it be recognized, there will be an effectual division in the ranks of the Democracy.

INTERNATIONAL MONEY ORDERS.

The international money order system between the United States and Great Britain goes into operation to-day. Remittances can be made by international money orders via Switzerland to all the principal towns and cities of Austria, Hungary, Spain, Russia, Sweden, Denmark, Norway, Turkey, Greece, Egypt, the East Indies and China.

THE PREACHERS ON TAMMANY.

Many preachers yesterday took another opportunity to denounce Tammany. Mr. Beecher made his first appearance in Brooklyn since his summer vacation, and indulged in allusions to official corruption. He said if all men that have been guilty of fraud in New York were to have a tower fall on them, there would be funerals enough for fifty years.

SETTLED.

Judge Barnard settled the injunction question to-day, adopting portions of the three orders submitted. The order restrains the payment of money without the indorsement of Andrew H. Green, Comptroller, and prohibits the raising of money without the sanction of the Board of Apportionment.

SMALL POX.

The small-pox is increasing in Brooklyn. A yellow flag has been placed in front of each building where the disease exists, and attention is given to the necessity for cleanliness and proper means to prevent a further spread of this frightful disease.

THE CUBAN INSURRECTION.

A special dispatch from Havana states that telegraphic communication has been re-established between Porte au Principe and the capital called the Camaguey. This is the main step to the completion of the pacification of the island.

BEN WOOD.

A rumor asserts that Ben Wood goes to Rochester as an anti-Tammany delegate, in order to secure the repeal of the city charter and a municipal election next spring, at which Fernando Wood may be elected Mayor.

DIFFICULTIES SETTLED.

There is a rumor to-day that the difficulties in the Department of Parks have been settled by Andrew H. Green taking his place on the Executive Committee of the Commission in place of Thos. C. Fields.

REPUBLICAN TICKET INDORSED.

The Republican press in the interior of this State universally indorse the Republican ticket. As a general thing, however, the custom house is thought to be in need of purification.

WORKINGMEN'S PARTY.

A workingmen's party was formed at a meeting of workingmen held at the Germania Assembly Rooms last evening. It will be the endeavor of the party to promote reforms in official quarters.

MEDICAL.

The National Eclectic Medical Association announces that its second annual meeting will be held at Association Hall, in this city, on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week.

JOCULAR REMARK.

Judge Connolly now says that his remark that he had burned important public papers was made in a jocular way, and that all the documents are still in existence.

DELEGATES ELECTED.

The Democratic Union elected a full list of twenty-one delegates to the Rochester Convention.

POLICEMEN'S SALARY.

Arrangements have been made by which the police receive their pay to October.

LOUISVILLE.

Fearful Ballooning.

LOUISVILLE, October 2.—On last Saturday, near Paoli, Orange county, Ind., Prof. Wilbur made arrangements for a balloon ascension. He was to be accompanied by Geo. H Knapp, editor of the Orange County Union. Just as they were about getting in the balloon the cords gave way and they made a spring for the car, but only succeeded in grasping the ropes of the balloon. Knapp let go and fell at the height of about thirty feet, without serious injury. Prof. Wilbur held on, and attempted to climb into the basket, but was unable to do so, and the balloon shot up rapidly with the aeronaut clinging below. The spectators were thrilled with horror at the terrible scene, which ended in a frightful manner. At the height of about one mile, the doomed man loosened his hold and came whirling to the earth. At the height he had attained he looked like a small stick about a foot long. As he approached the earth he was coming down feet foremost, then spread out horizontally, then doubled up and turned over and then straightened out, head downward as he struck the earth. He fell upon his head, and the back of his head was crushed into an undistinguishable mass. The body was bruised and crushed horribly. The concussion was so great that half a gallon of clotted blood was thrown from the body, which made an indenture in the ground eight inches deep, and rebounded about four feet from where it struck. To add to the painful character of the scene, Professor Young's wife and little daughter were on the ground and witnessed the terrible affair. The remains of the unfortunate man were properly cared for and buried at Paoli yesterday afternoon.

LOUISVILLE.

Interesting Decision.

LOUISVILLE, October 1.— The Frankfort (Ky.) correspondent of the Courier-Journal writes that the Court of Appeals on Saturday affirmed the mandamus of Judge Bruce against the judge of Shelby county, to compel him to issue four hundred thousand county bonds to the Cumberland and Ohio Railroad, for the construction of its proposed road. This decision, it is presumed, will settle the question of the legality of all subscriptions to the company. L. F. Smith, the President of the company, has issued a call to the Board of Directors to meet in Louisville on Friday, October 6th, to take steps to set on foot the work of construction. This enterprise, which is thus in a fair way to be consummated, will connect Cincinnati and Louisville with Chattanooga, Nashville and the Central South.

CHICAGO.

The Late Fire.

CHICAGO, October 2.—It is pretty certainly ascertained that only one man, Charles Stearns, perished in the fire at the Burlington warehouse on Saturday. The loss foots up six hundred and thirty-eight thousand dollars. The insurance thus far, as ascertained, aggregates three hundred and twenty seven thousand dollars.

GRANT'S RECEPTION.

President Grant held a reception in the parlor of the Tremont House to-day, between the hours of twelve and one. Nearly 5,000 people, of all conditions in life and of both sexes, paid their respects to him. Mrs. Grant and her daughter Nellie also had a reception for ladies at the same hours.

VIRGINIA.

Injunction Granted.

RICHMOND, October 2.—Upon the application of James E. Tyson, of Baltimore, an injunction order has been granted in the United States Circuit Court prohibiting any consolidation of the Virginia and Tennessee Railroad Company with other roads, and the issuing and selling of bonds and securing the same by a lien upon the stock. The order will be heard on the 20th inst. The charge is that the President and officers propose to issue bonds to the amount of eight millions, securing the same on the consolidated roads and their earnings, including the Virginia, Tennessee, South Side, Norfolk and Petersburg Roads, under the name of the Atlantic, Mississippi and Ohio Railroad Company.

POUGHKEEPSIE.

Attempt to Escape.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., October 2.—About three o'clock this afternoon fifty convicts at Sing Sing prison took the propeller Hugh Ruttan, belonging to contractor A. Walker, and tried to escape, but Captain C. Ward let go his anchor and stopped the boat. The guards fired about thirty shots but did no harm. The officers from the prison went out in small boats and brought them all back, and they are now locked up.

POTTSVILLE.

Mine Explosion.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Oct., 2.—A dispatch says an explosion of sulphur occurred this afternoon in the Otto colliery. Patrick McMichael, Geo. Dunlap, Jacob Yost and Thomas Hays were killed, and George Baince seriously injured. One miner is missing. There are no hopes of recovering him alive.

It is the first time in many years that the Legislature organized in less than a week.

DETROIT has turned out a successful street car dummy. The car is so arranged that the engine consumes its own smoke and steam, and moves along the streets like a thing of life, noiseless and smoothly. The cost of running it is four-fifths less than by horse power. One dollar a day will keep it in fuel, and two men can run it. It is so arranged that the engine occupies only surplus room under the floor of the car, it being somewhat higher than the ordinary cars.

THERE is a city in Silesia bearing the unctuous name of Pfatt. It is probably a kind of an obe city.—Chicago Post.

The Treaty Commission.

WASHINGTON, October 2, 1871.

ALLEGED MURDERER ACQUITTED.

The case of Dennis Darden, charged with the murder of John McCarthy, ended to-day in the Criminal Court. Counsel had submitted the case without argument. Judge Humphreys briefly charged the jury, who, after a consultation of about ten minutes, brought in a verdict of "not guilty."

THE TREATY COMMISSION.

The Commissioners under the treaty of Washington have adopted rules and regulations for the presentation of claims. Claimants must file a statement in the form of a memorial, accompanied by twenty printed copies thereof. When the claim is for less than one thousand dollars the memorials will be printed at the expense of the commission. The full name of the claimant, place of birth and place of residence between the 13th of April, 1861, and the 9th of April, 1865, must be given. Naturalized citizens must attend with an authenticated copy of record of naturalization. Firms or associations other than a corporation or joint stock company must state the name of each person interested, with the propotion of interest. The memorials must state the particulars of the claim, the general ground on which it is founded and the amount claimed properly verified. Objection to the jurisdiction of the commission or sufficiency of the case stated in the memorial may be made in the form of a demurrer. Claimants are allowed two months from the filing of the memorial to complete their proofs, and thereafter two months will be allowed for taking proofs of defence, and the commission may allow further time for cause shown. The Commission may issue a special commission for taking testimony on the application of either party, or order witnesses to appear before them for examination. Arguments for claimants shall be filed within fifteen days after the papers have been printed by the Commission, and all cases are to be submitted on the printed argument, containing all the facts proven and references to the evidence by which they are proven. Counsel for the respective Governments will be heard orally upon any case.

WEATHER REPORT.

The area of lowest pressure which was on Sunday afternoon northwest of Iowa, has moved east and southward, and is probably now central on Lake Huron. The area of highest barometer has remained in the south Atlantic States, or is now off that coast. The low pressure, with easterly winds and rain, which was in the western portion of the Gulf, has moved northward into Texas, with rain and threatening weather in Arkansas. The barometer has fallen very rapidly during the day from Tennessee and Virginia to the lower lakes, with cloudy weather in the Ohio Valley, and increasing southwesterly winds. Brisk easterly winds in southern Florida and southern winds with rain on the western Gulf coast.

Probabilities—A falling barometer with brisk southwesterly winds and possibly rain will probably prevail by Tuesday noon from Tennessee and Illinois to the lower lakes and New England; continued cloudy weather with southeasterly winds west of Alabama; southerly winds and increased cloudiness on the South Atlantic, and a rising barometer with cloudy weather in the northwest.

INDICTMENT QUASHED.

On Saturday Mr. Riddle filed in the Criminal Court a motion to quash the indictment against White and Ramsdell, of the New York Tribune Bureau in this city, charged with refusing to answer questions propounded by the United States Senate, on the ground, first, that the Criminal Court has no original jurisdiction in the case; second, that the offence being a misdemeanor, is not subject to indictment in the District of Columbia; and, third, the cause of action being a misdemeanor, is cognizable exclusively by the police court of the District of Columbia. The case came before Judge Humphreys, in the Criminal Court, and after hearing the argument of Riddle, for the defendants, the court quashed the indictment. It is understood that District Attorney Fisher intends to bring the case before the Police Court.

BY MAIL.

A LONDON cabman has lately recovered damages from a woman who delayed his business by being too fat to get into his cab.

PRINCE GORTSCHAKOFF, Chief of the Russian Cabinet, and President Thiers will meet at Lausanne, in Switzerland, in a few days, according to arrangements made by General Le Flo. The last interview was not very satisfactory. Gortschakoff asked M. Thiers from whom he came, and the latter said "From France." "Rather vague," said the Prince, smiling. "I hope you don't imagine," said Thiers, "that I come in the name of Gambetta and Jules Favre. I am an ex-Minister of Louis Philippe, and represent a republic."

PRINCE HUMBERT'S travels through Spain are thus described by La Correspondence: "The heir to the Italian throne travels in strict incognito. When the train reached Villalba the persons who expected him, among whom was his brother, naturally approached the first class carriages; but what was their surprise to see a young man in a striped shirt, looking more like a stoker than a Prince, jump lightly from the locomotive, make his way through the group and throw himself into the arms of King Amadeus. Needless to say, it was Prince Humbert, who had been performing the duties of a machinist."

WORKMEN are still actively engaged in repairing the monument of the city of Lille in the place de la Concorde. According to the Monde, the site of this statue evokes some painful reminiscences. In 1793 a restaurant stood upon this spot with the sign of "La Gullotine," and the private cabinets on the first floor were in great request as affording an excellent view of the scaffold in front of the Place. On each table by the side of the bill of fare, the waiters used to place a list of the traitors who were to be executed. Courbet, a member of the Convention, relates in his memoirs that Robespierre breakfasted there on the day when Danton was sacrificed. True, indeed, some little time after the terrace was crowded to witness the execution of Robespierre himself. In 1794 the establishment changed its sign to Cafe de la Concorde, which it retained till its final demolition.

THE Times of India publishes the following letter: "SIR—Yesterday was Monday—a sacred day of one of the most Sacred months, Shravum. At 5 P. M. I had bathed and prepared myself for the worship of the Deity. My eyes were half shut by the drowsiness of abstraction in Him; my heart was melting before His glory, and my mind, leaving behind the dark and labyrinthian regions of reason, had rested on the bed of belief. I was reflecting gratefully on the various resources of edification, subsistence and pleasure given by His bounty to man! In the midst of such reveries I was startled by hearing a noise like shooting. I went out to see what it was, and was told that the pigeon-shooting Europeans were engaged in the (to us) horrible and disgustful sport in the Sooneri Menel! How must the Hindoos within seeing and hearing of the shots have been pained by such a deed at such a time! I am sure God has not intended the death of even His slightest creature to be a sport! Death may be necessary—death may be an accident—but it can never be an amusement. I beg, &c. Mahader Trimbuckhoy, a Brahmin, Broach, Aug. 1."

THE RIGHT HONORABLE RUSSELL GURNEY, M. P., who gets his style of right honorable from his appointment as a privy counsellor, and who has now been appointed English arbitrator under the treaty of Washington, is a son of the late Sir John Gurney, an eminent lawyer and a Baron of the Exchequer. He was born September 2, 1804, educated at Trinity College, Cambridge, called to the bar at the Middle Temple in November, 1828, and got his silk robe as a Queen's counsel in 1845. He was elected Recorder of London in 1855, and still holds that place. Mr. Gurney's Parliamentary career began late in life. He was returned from Southampton in 1865 on Conservative principles, and has been a steady opponent of Mr. Gladstone and the party now in power in England. His nomination as arbitrator under the second treaty of Washington, therefore, is not only a high personal compliment, but a proof that the Gladstone Government, adhering to the policy adopted by them in sending the Tory Sir Stafford Northcote to negotiate the treaty, intend to make the opposition share the responsibility, throughout, of this diplomatic work.—*N. ECCLESIASTICAL COURT.

Rev. John A. Gray's Trial.

SIXTH DAY'S PROCEEDINGS

The trial of Rev. John A. Gray was resumed yesterday afternoon. The session was announced to convene at one o'clock, but it was a quarter of two before the court organized. All the members of the committee were present at the opening except Rev. Dr. Miller.

Prayer was offered by the Rev. W. D. Stevens.

Dr. Dempsey stated that Dr. Miller went home on Saturday, and might arrive any moment. The examination of witnesses could proceed by consent of both sides.

ROBERT M. TOY ON THE STAND.

Robert M. Toy was called to the witness stand.

D. Dempsey remarked that witnesses under the church rule were not obliged to take an oath befor testifying in church matters, but it was hoped that witnesses would consider that their statements were as binding as though they were sworn to.

Question to witness—Where do you reside? A.—Pittsburgh.

Q.—How long have you been living in Pittsburgh? A.—About six years.

Q.—What is your business and where do you work? A.—Am a machinist by trade, and work at Marshall & Morgan's Pittsburgh Steam Hammer works.

Q.—For whom were you working in the spring and fall of 1870? A.—Hartupee & Co.

Q.—Do you know Rev. John A. Gray and Annie Littell? A.—I do.

Q.—Did you ever hear Mr. Gray preach, how often, and when? A.—I did, during the winter and spring of 1870, frequently, at Christ church, Penn street.

"UNDER THE GASLIGHT."

Q.—State what, if anything, you know about Mr. Gray and Anna Littell going into the building No. 64 Fourth avenue, in May, 1870? A.—On the 13th of May, 1870, I saw Annie Littell or Fuller going toward the bank building, No. 64 Fourth avenue; meeting Rev. John A. Gray a short distance from the building, stopping as if saying something to Rev. Mr. Gray, then passing on and going into the building No. 64 Fourth avenue, Rev. Mr. Gray following immediately after, going into the same building, No. 64 Fourth avenue, and remaining there about one hour or more, then coming out of the building and going toward home. On May 20, saw Rev. Gray going into No. 64 Fourth avenue about eight P. M.; saw Anna Littell enter No. 64 Fourth avenue about five minutes after, remaining there until about midnight. Saw Anna Littell, in company with Mr. March, coming out of the building No. 64 Fourth avenue; did not see Rev. Gray come out that night; went round to Rev. John A. Gray's house about twelve o'clock at night; asked if Rev. Gray was in; a lady at the second-story window said he was not.

EPISTOLARY.

I then dropped him a note and put it under the door, requesting him to meet me at the Live Oak hotel, on Fourth avenue, next day at 2 P. M; I think but am not positive as to the hour mentioned. This he did not comply; about a week or ten days after I sent him a note to meet me at the Young Mens' Christian Association rooms, corner of Penn and Sixth streets. This he did not comply with; shortly after went to his house: did not find him at home, and called again; did not find him at home. Mr. Wm. Frederick and I together finally did succeed in finding him at home. We told him we wished to have a private conversation with him. He then took us up stairs into his study-room. Mr. Frederick said that he had come to see him about this Fourth avenue affair. Rev. Mr. Gray remarked

"WHAT OF IT?"

Mr. F. said he had just called around to let him know that we know all about this affair on Fourth avenue. Mr. Gray remarked "what are you going to do about it?" Mr. Frederick said you don't appear to care anything about it. Then we left, went down and went home.

Q.—What, then, did you do, or did you go to see any person about it? A.—We came to the conclusion to let some of the and went and saw Mr. Bascomb, a member of Christ M. E. Church, and in company with Mr. Bascomb to see Rev. J. H. Ebbert, who is also a member of this church; told both of them what we had seen on Fourth avenue; they (Mr. Ebbert and Mr. Bascomb) requested us not to say anything further in the matter until they would see Mr. Gray.

Q.—State whether you were at the office of A. M. Brown, Esq., with Mr. Gray, how you came to go there, who were there, and what was said while there. A.—I was there; went by request of W. C. Moreland, Esq., through Mr. Frederick. Rev. John A. Gray, W. C. Moreland, Esq., Mr. March, A. M. Brown, Esq., Mr. Frederick and myself were present.

THE "EXPLANATION" AT MAJ. BROWN'S.

Q.—State what was the affect of your meeting? A.—Mr. Moreland there read a deposition of Annie Littell; after which Mr. Frederick asked what was Annie Littell in the building, No. 64 Fourth avenue, on the 20th of May, until 12 o'clock. Mr. March replied that he had her in an adjoining room until Mr. Gray and his brother would vacate March's room. Mr. Gray stated that he and his brother had met there for the purpose of transacting some real estate business.

Q.—Did Mr. Gray say his "brother," or "brother-in-law?" A.—That is a mistake; I think Rev. Gray said his "brother-in-law."

At this stage of the proceedings Dr. Miller arrived and took his place on the Committee.

Q.—Was anything said about his brother-in-law being intoxicated? A.—No, sir.

Q.—What time was this meeting in A. M. Brown's office? A.—In June, I think; can't say positively.

Q.—At the meeting did Mr. Gray admit or deny that he was at the room of Mr. March the two evenings referred to? A.—I believe he did deny being there on the 13th, but would not say positively; but he admitted being there on the 20th.

"LYING IN WAIT."

Q.—Where were you and Mr. Frederick from the time you saw them enter the building until Mr. Gray came out the first night and Annie Littell the second night. A.—On Fourth avenue in sight of the building.

Q.—Did you see Mr. March the second night you were there? A.—I did.

Q.—Where did you see him? A.—I saw him enter the building and returning about every twenty minutes, or half hour.

Q.—What was he doing or what appeared to be his object?

Mr. Hopkins objected,—no impressions, nothing but facts.

Mr. White—Well let it go.

Q.—Was he watching you and Mr. Frederick? A.—He was.

Q.—Where were Mr. Gray and Annie Littell when they passed each other the first night, and what part of the street? A.—Between the building and Wood street.

FIXING THE DATES.

Q.—How come you to fix those two dates of May 13th and 20th? A.—I had a memorandum of such, which after the meeting at A. M. Brown's office I destroyed.

Q.—What time of day on the 13th of June did you meet them at the building? A.—About 8 P. M.

Q.—Was any person with you on the evenings of May 13 and 20, when you saw Mr. Gray at the building; if so, who? A.—Mr. Frederick was in my company.

Q.—Was Mr. Frederick with you each time you called to see Mr. Gray? A.—He was.

Q.—Did you sign your name to the notes you testify as being sent to Mr. Gray? A.—I did; just my own name.

Q.—Did you see Mr. March the first night you speak of? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Where were you standing at that time? A.—On the opposite side of the street—Fourth avenue.

Q.—Could you distinctly recognize Mr. Gray and Annie Littell? A.—I could distinctly by a gas lamp.

Q.—Which way was Annie Littell going and which way Mr. Gray? A.—Annie Littell was going from Wood, and Mr. Gray from Market street.

Q.—How far did Mr. Gray go after he passed her before he turned? A.—But a short distance.

FOLLOWING HIM.

Q.—After Mr. Gray came down that first night, did you follow him and how far? A.—I followed him to Wood street, he going down the right hand side of the street to Wood and me the left; passed me on the corner of Wood and Fourth, in the direction of his home.

Q.—Are you positive as to the identity of the parties, or do you think you could have been mistaken? A.—I am positive.

The examination in chief here closed, and the cross-examination by Mr. Hopkins commenced.

Q.—How long have you known Annie Littell? A.—Knew her since the spring of 1870.

Q.—What time? A.—Couldn't say positively. That's a mistake, I mean since the summer of 1869.

Q.—When was she married? A.—Couldn't say positively.

Q.—About what time? A.—Couldn't say.

Q.—When did she separate from her husband? A.—That I couldn't say positively either.

TRIANGULAR SPARRING AGAIN.

Q.—When did you commence keeping company with her?

Mr. White—He needn't answer that question.

Witness—I don't see what that has to do with this case.

Mr. Hopkins—Never mind that. If you do not want to answer you can decline.

Dr. Dempsey—You are not to be the judge of the propriety of questions.

Witness—I guess I can answer what I please.

Mr. Hopkins—Certainly, and you can decline to answer this if—

Mr. White—I object to all this. It is an endeavor to cast a reflection on the witness. You can call other witnesses to do that if you choose, but such questions are no cross-examination properly. But to show that this amounts to nothing, I advise the witness to answer, although I contend you have no right to ask it.

Dr. Dempsey—The question can be asked and ruled out if improper.

And then another sharp triangular discussion between the presiding officer and the counsel on each side, which continued about five minutes, and in which recriminations were indulged in freely. The result might be considered a draw, as the record was unchanged—the answer of the witness as given remaining.

The cross-examination then continued.

HEARS MR. GRAY PREACH.

Q.—When did you first come to know Mr. March. A.—About the middle of May.

Q.—You stated that you had frequently heard Mr. Gray preach, when was it, and who accompanied you. A.—In the winter and spring of '69 and '70, sometimes alone and sometimes in company with Annie Littell.

Q.—On May 13th where was it you saw Mr. Gray and Annie Littell meet, opposite what building were they. A.—Opposite the Pittsburgh Bank on Fourth avenue.

Q.—How long had you been on Fourth avenue at that time, and for what purpose. A.—Followed Miss Annie Littell down Wood street to Fourth avenue.

Q.—How far toward Wood street did Mr. Gray continue to walk? A.—But a short distance.

Q.—Did you not continue to follow Annie Littell and cease to look after Mr. Gray. A.—I did not.

Q.—Then you directed your attention to Mr. Gray when he passed, did you? A.—I did.

Q.—How then did you see Annie Littell enter that building? A.—I thought you had reference to his time of going home. I wish to explain. They were both in sight during this time (the time of meeting and passing and going in different directions.

WHERE HE SAW THEM.

Q.—Opposite what building were you when they met? A.—That I couldn't say; I didn't take notice.

Q.—Were you immediately opposite them when they met? A.—Almost immediately.

Q.—Did you stop or continue towards Market street? A.—I stopped until I saw them both enter the building.

Q.—How was Mr. Gray dressed at that time? A.—Did'nt take particular notice. Think he wore his usual clothes.

Q.—When they meet did you distinctly recognize the gentleman as Mr. Gray. A.—I did.

Q.—Why then, when he came out of the building, did you follow him to see who it was. A.—I wanted to know positive that it was Rev. John A. Gray that came out of the building.

Q.—Where did you go after you saw them enter. A.—I stopped on Fourth avenue in sight of the building, backwards and forward along the street in sight of the building.

Q.—How long did they remain together on the street. A.—Just halted as if saying something, and then going on.

Q.—Did either of them stop at all. A.—They may have stopped, but if so a very short time. If they did stop that was all.

Q.—Did Mr. Gray touch his hat to her as he passed. A.—Cannot say positive.

TIME OF THE EVENING VISITS.

Q.—Which came out first that night. A.—Mr Gray.

Q.—How long after him was it before Annie Littell came out. A.—Couldn't say, did not stop to see.

Q.—What time in the evening of May 13th did Mr. Gray go in the house on Fourth avenue. A.—About eight o'clock.

Q.—On the evening of May 20th which went in first. A.—Rev. John A. Gray.

Q.—Where were you at the time and what direction did he come from. A.—On Fourth avenue near Wood. He came down Wood street and up Fourth.

Q.—Did you follow him. A.—I did.

Q.—Where did you go when he entered. I remained on Fourth avenue handy to the building.

Q.—From what direction did Annie Littell come that night. A.—From Market street.

Q.—Where did she board at the time? A.—Couldn't say positive; thought she was at the Female College.

Q.—Where did you first see March that night? A.—Shortly after they two (Mr. Gray and Anna Littell) went into the building; couldn't say whether he (March) was going in or coming out when I first saw him.

Q.—How long was it until you next saw him? A.—Between fifteen minutes and half an hour.

Q.—Was he coming out or going in at that time? A.—To the best of my knowledge, he was coming out.

Q.—Where did he go and how long remain away? A.—Went toward Wood street, remained perhaps five or ten minutes, then returning.

NO OTHER PERSON ENTERING.

Q.—Did you see any other person enter or leave the building that night? A.—No others.

Q.—Why did you want Mr. Gray to meet you at the Live Oak Hotel? A.—To let him know that we (Frederick and I) had seen him go into this building.

Q.—Why did you want to let him know that. A.—To tell him if he did not stop going to No. 64 Fourth avenue to meet Annie Littell, that we would expose him to the members of the congregation.

Q.—Were either Frederick or yourself a member of his church, or of any church. A.—I am not a member of Christ M. E. Church. Am a member of Dr. Howard's Church, Second Presbyterian Church.

Q.—Did you state in that letter the reason you wished to meet him. A.—Could'nt say positive, think not.

Q.—In the second letter you wrote, did you give any reason for wishing to meet him. A.—I believe not.

THE INTERVIEW AT MR. GRAY'S HOUSE.

Q.—When you and Frederick saw him at his house, state all that was said and done by all the parties in the order in which it occurred. A.—Mr. Frederick told him we had come to see him about this Fourth avenue affair. Mr. Gray's reply, I believe, was "What of it." Mr. Frederick remarked, "You don't appear to care much about it," or something to that effect. Mr. Gray remarked, "What are you going to do about it." That's about what transpired. We then left, not getting any satisfaction.

Q.—What do you mean by satisfaction? A.—Well we didn't get any satisfactory answer. He did not appear to want to talk on the subject at all.

Q.—What question had you asked which he did not answer satisfactorily? A.—It was not in the manner of answering the question, but the way he cut us short.

Q.—In that interview did you mention the name of Annie Littell or any other woman, or tell him in any way what you meant by the Fourth avenue affair? A.—Couldn't say positive. I think Mr. Frederick mentioned Annie Littell's name.

Q.—In what way? A.—Don't remember the words he said exactly.

Q.—Did you not state a few minutes since that you had given all that was said at that interview? A.—Well, I just stated a few minutes ago that I didn't remember positive whether he mentioned her name at all.

Q.—Did you make any reference to the object of his visits to Fourth avenue, which you can now remember? A.—I did not.

Q.—Did Mr. Frederick—any that you can now remember. A.—I believe not; not that I can remember; there may have been between him and Mr. Frederick.

Q.—Did either of you on that occasion tell him that he would be exposed if he continued those visits? A.—I believe not.

Q.—Did you not, you or Frederick say to Mr. Gray at that time that you thought he might not want his visits to Fourth avenue known. A.—No, I believe not.

Q.—In reply to a threat by you or Frederick, did not Mr. Gray tell you, "crack your whip and do your worst?" and did he not at the same time open the door and order you out? A.—No, sir; I believe not; he didn't open the door, and he didn't order us out.

Q. Did he say that. A. If he did it must have been after we were out. I didn't hear him.

"CRACK YOUR WHIP."

Q. Did you not say to Jas. H. Bascomb that Mr. Gray had treated you insultingly, had told you to crack your whip and almost turned you out of doors,—referring to the interview just spoken of. A. Mr. Bascomb and Mr. Frederick had held the conversation, I didn't have anything to say to Mr. Bascomb at all. He and Mr. Frederick had the conversation.

Q. Was it in your presence. A. I was in the room.

Q. Was this said by Frederick to Bascomb in your presence. A. He did say part of it.

Q. What part of it. A. That he treated us insultingly.

Q. At that interview with Bascomb or Frederick in your presence, say that he supposed that Mr. Gray could live without preaching and ask him if Mr. Gray hadn't money. A. We did not.

Q.—Did you tell Mr. Bascomb that when you saw Mr. Gray enter the Fourth avenue house he wore a soft hat or cap? A.—Might have said he wore a soft hat; wouldn't be positive.

Q.—At that interview did you tell Mr. Bascomb that you had had illicit intercourse with Annie Littell? A.—I decline to answer.

Q.—Do you know Sarah E. Fuller? A.—I do; she is a sister of Annie Littell, I believe.

Q.—At any time during the summer or fall of 1870, did you board in the same house in which she was employed? A.—I believe I did.

"BLACKMAILING" HINTED AT.

Q.—After your visit to the office of Major Brown, did you, or Frederick in your presence, say to Sarah Fuller that you had undertaken the case now, and when you dropped it it would not be for nothing; you were "not afraid that you would make some money off Mr. Gray," or words to that effect? A.—I did not; nor Frederick in my presence.

Q.—You say you went to Mr. Brown's office at the request of Mr. Moreland. Had you not been there before, and for what purpose? A.—No, I had not; had been to Mr. A. M. Brown's house.

Q.—For what purpose? A.—For having counsel in the matter.

Q.—In what matter? A.—In the Fourth avenue matter.

Q.—When was that prior visit? A.—Couldn't say positive; think it was in June.

Q.—How long was this visit before you met Mr. Gray at Mr. Brown's office? A.—But a short time, perhaps three or four days.

Q.—At the meeting in Major Brown's office was Annie Littell present? A.—She was not.

Q.—At that interview was the explanations confined to the night of May 20th? A.—It was.

Q.—Was anything said about any other visit to March's room?

Witness asked for the reading of the preceding question.

Mr. Hopkins explained by asking if the explanation in Major Brown's office referred alone to May 20th, or if any other visits were mentioned? A.—My recollection is that was the only evening spoken of. There may have been something else said but that was the excuse he gave for being there on the evening of the 20th.

WITNESS' RELATIONS WITH ANNIE LITTELL.

Q.—Did you have a quarrel with Annie Littell, if so, when? A.—No I had not. I just ceased speaking to her, that was all the quarrel we ever had.

Q.—Did she not cease speaking to you first and refuse to go with you any more? A.—She spoke last. (Laughter.)

Q.—Did she refuse to go with you? A.—She did not at that time.

Q.—What time? A.—At the time you refer to. I suppose she would'nt go with me now. (Laughter.) She never resused to go with me.

Q.—When did you cease speaking to her? A.—The latter part of April or 1st of May 1870.

The Court then took a recess until this morning at nine o'clock.

PETROLEUM at Antwerp 50.

GOLD closed in New York yesterday at 114⅛@114¼.

THE Post keeps very quiet concerning our proposed "SEVENTEENTH Amendment." Why is this?

FROM all parts of the State come good tidings. The Republican party is marching in solid column on to victory.

WORK! Only a few more days are left to close up the ranks Republicans, do your full duty and thus save the commonwealth from falling into the hands of the old enemy.

PRESIDENT GRANT telegraphs from Chicago that he will leave Dayton to-night, and arrive in this city to-morrow morning. The arrangements were completed last evening for his reception.

THE outlook in Pennsylvania was never better for a brilliant and decisive victory, but that is no good reason why any Republican should grow apathetic. Never let up in work until the victory is gained.

BOSS TWEED has issued a circular to the office-holders of New York, calling upon them and their attendants to furnish TWO PER CENT. of their salaries to sustain the Tammany candidates at the approaching election. Any one failing to respond with the greenbacks will be at once relieved of duty.

THE temperance hobby is now being ridden to death by the good Democratic editors, who imagine the abortive third party ticket in the field will steal a few followers from the Republican ranks in Pennsylvania. Even so, we have enough loyal voters left to crush the combined armies of the mongrelites.

THE GREAT INTERNATIONAL TUNNEL, connecting Canada and the United States, at Detroit, was commenced yesterday The engineering department is under the control of Mr. J. F. Chesborough, and his brother, and the contractors announce all things ready for pushing this wonderful piece of engineering work through vigorously. When completed it will prove one of the grandest pieces of work of which human ingenuity can boast.

"THE Post betrays its unhappiness over the political prospect by resorting to personal abuse. This is foolish. The GAZETTE didn't even abuse the writing editor of the Post, but simply stated, what we incline to believe is the truth, that said editor had affirmed that he was a repeater at the Republican primaries—and forthwith the Post bristles with indignation. Now, friend Post, "what is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander." If you don't like to receive personalities, don't give them."—Dispatch.

So, calling us "a liar" has not made us one by any means. Our cotemporary states the case fairly, and we thank it for doing so.

THE Post WANTS us to give a "square answer" to the interrogatories "whether colored men havn't as good a right to eat and sleep at the Monongahela House as white men?" We answer YES, we think they have. 2d. "What do we think of Radical hotel proprietors who refused the minstrels accommodation?" As to that we know nothing. We know some Democrats, however, who would not be admitted into any respectable hotel, or any other kind of a house, unless it would be a work-house, a jail, or a penitentiary, and if more of them were there the country would be much better off at all times. Is the Post satisfied? Give us another question, neighbor.

"As the Post is the only paper in this city that has the independence to give the Temperance men a hearing, so it is the only journal that stands up squarely for the colored man.—Post.

That is decidedly good reading for August weather, but in view of other extracts cut from the same paper, and also in view of the fact that this is October, the month in which the annual Democratic funeral service is performed in this state, we submit that it is out of date, and looks like an attempt to whistle to keep up courage. Will not our colored friends take notice of this unselfish interest in their behalf? Will not the Temperance men, too, particularly Mr. Birmingham, take notice of this new found friend?

AT the last regular meeting of Councils two Democratic members of these bodies presented with a flourish of trumpets a resolution calling for a statement of the expenditures of the City Hall Commission, who the contractors are, and how much has been paid. On Saturday last, much to their astonishment and chagrin, William Phillips, Esq., President of the Commission presented to these bodies a complete statement of their doings from the formation of the Commission to the present time, and they were so completely dumbfounded by the report that they failed to ask a single question. Their "organ" the Post acknowledged its disappointment by wisely concluding that the best thing to be done was to say nothing about it. The Commissioners have made a satisfactory statement to the tax-payers, showing that the gross expenditures on the building so far are less than $500,000. Democracy did not expect such a prompt and satisfactory report.

THE Post now intimates that we uttered a "falsehood," in stating that its editor—whom we understand to be Wm. A. Taylor—had stated that he "had voted five times at the Republican primary elections." Mr. Taylor has not denied that he said so, but on the contrary, HAS ADMITTED IT to us, and will not now deny it. Wherefore have we uttered any falsehood? Now, as to itself, it charged one of the GAZETTE's firm, mentioning his name, with being a "malicious liar," etc., when it had not one scintilla of evidence that that person wrote a line in connection with the subject, which appears to have enraged it to such an extent, that its conductors have lost their reason, and charge right and left without a particle of proof that what they are uttering is TRUTH.

We have nothing to retract, having stated nothing but the truth, and we also have the satisfaction of knowing that we have not forgotten the courtesies due from one gentleman to another.

THE N. Y. World says: "We cannot doubt that the Republicans of the State condemn the thefts and malfeasance which have been practiced in New York city," and yet it adds that "the Syracuse platform is a lie." The Republican party condemns all thefts and malfeasance wherever found, whether in its own ranks or those of the opposing party. Can Democracy say as much? Has there not been the most persistent and systematic efforts made by the Democratic journals—first, to deny the rumors of wolesale robbery by the Tammany officers, and second, to cloak and belittle their crimes by passing them with scarcely any notice? Can they deny this? Has the organ of that party in this city denounced the thieves and called for their conviction? Has it not on the contrary almost wholly ignored them in its columns, whilst peering with lynx-eyed scrutiny for the motes in the eyes of Republicans? Republicans scorn and expose all rascals, Democracy embraces and secretes them. This is the difference.

"DURING the last session of Congress, an ignorant negro, named Revels, occupied a seat in the U. S. Senate."—Post.

This specimen of Democracy calls ex-Senator Revels "ignorant," simply because of his color. We venture to assert that the editor of that paper never saw Mr. Revels, never read one of his many eloquent speeches, or heard him in conversation. How does he know then that Mr. Revels is ignorant? Does he not simply take this method of showing his hatred to the colored man, whom he would gladly banish from his august presence? Is he afraid of the black man in the race for life? Is he jealous of him, and fearful that in the contrast his own mediocrity will be seen of men? Should the representative of a party, which sent Mike Walsh and John Morrisey to Congress, be the one to complain of the elevation to a seat in the Senate, of a pure, christian character like Mr. Revels? Is not his whole crime, in the eyes of this purblind, bigoted partisan, simply that he is black? Give us a square answer, and an HONEST one, if you dare.

IF ANY EVIDENCE were needed to convince the people of Pennsylvania of the truth of the charge of outrageous robbery preferred against George O. Evans by the agents of the Commonwealth, it is certainly supplied in his desperate attempt to avoid being brought back for trial. He has wandered from New York to Maine, and from Maine back to New York in his flight before the officers of the law, and now, as a last resort, openly flings himself into the corrupt ring of Tammany for protection, and, as a worthy applicant, he is received into the ranks and sheltered against the legal officers following to bring him to justice. It is a most singular and remarkable fact that the thieves and robbers of Tammany, and George O. Evans, affiliate so well together, and may argue that they have been common sharers in the plunder of Pennsylvania's war claims. Most diligent efforts have been made to bring Evans to justice but the officers of the law have been met and checkmated in every movement by the Tammany family. At this writing we do not know the result of the habeas corpus hearing in the Courts of New York City, but it will be much contrary to our expectations if the power of the Tammany influence will not be reasserted and the prisoner set free. The interference of the rascals of the metropolis to save a fleeing fugitive from Pennsylvania is a downright outrage and an insult to the people of this State, and we hope that their machinations may be circumvented and that their protege shall be compelled to make proper restitution of the immense sums of money plundered from the treasury of the taxpayers of the Commonwealth.

EVERY new country, it would seem, must produce its prophet or sect-founder. Every old country has done as much, and the fact that we are fast approaching the last quarter of the nineteenth century does not appear to make the slightest difference; and America has not hesitated to follow in the footsteps of the older, or, at least, longer-known, quarters of the globe. But Universalism, Shakerism and Mormonism are no longer the youngest or even the strangest of the sects, and even spiritualism would acquire an air of dignity and antiquity if compared with the doctrines of the new Australian prophet. This latest victim of the mania for inspiration is named Fisher, and he has already caught numerous gudgeons. According to his professed creed, "every person now alive is the reproduction or incarnation of some Biblical personage"—the modest and talented Fisher himself being the incarnation of Jesus Christ and King David. He does his best in some respects to fill the roles that he has assumed, and lays especial stress on the fact that, like his ancient and royal prototype, he may, nay must, have a plurality of better fractions, i. e. wives. His followers are all his fathers-in-law, or would be if the law permitted polygamy, and whenever he points out an Ahabe or Cain or Judas to them they consider it to be both a pleasure and a duty to attack the villain. What may be the further belief of this band of fanatics we have not been able to discover, but there is enough in what we have learned to bring them all to the prison, the mad-house or the gallows, if they faithfully and closely carry out their theories.

ALLEGHENY OBSERVATORY.

The Allegheny Observatory is now occupied, in connection with that at Cambridge, and the United States Survey, in an extensive longitude determination by telegraph. For this purpose the observatories are connected in one great circuit with the places whose position is to be found. In this case the officers of the Coast Survey have erected temporary observatories at Columbus and Cleveland, Ohio, and the operations of every night involve the electrical transmission of the beats of the clock at each station, which are in turn received on the chronographs of the others. The process is an extremely beautiful and accurate one, but involving prolonged labor, to determine the positions with the accuracy demanded by modern science.

The longitude of the Allegheny observatory, (and hence of Pittsburgh,) has been found already, but a more accurate value is always attainable with increased pains, and it is determined to make this so extremely exact, that it may be used in time as the standard by which to fix the location of all western cities in telegraphic connection with our own.

The Coast Survey of the United States is thus carrying its measurements into the interior of the continent and conducting, with the co-operation of our observatories one of the most extensive geodetic operations ever undertaken in any country.

DANGER.

Republicans, efforts are making to lull you to sleep, and close your eyes to the responsibility that rests upon you. The enemy is insidiously at work, and by a false show of friendship is attempting to obtain your vote. The Congressional apportionment will be made by the incoming Legislature, which will stand for the next ten years, and it is all important that the majority in the Legislature should be Republican, in order to secure justice. Past experience has shown us that we cannot depend upon Democracy. Citizens of Pittsburgh, we call upon you to vote for the Republican nominees for Assembly if you value your rights. By doing so a base conspiracy can be defeated. Workingmen, mechanics, capitalists, we call upon you, as you value your existence, and prosperity, stand by the nominees of our party. If through neglect and apathy Pennsylvania should be lost to us, a free trade policy will be inaugurated and successfully carried out. All that saves us now, is the endeavor to hold Pennsylvania as a Republican State. Let it go over to Democracy, and its cherished and vital interests will be jeopardized. We say again, the success of the Republican ticket this fall and next, is an absolute necessity, if we would defeat a deep laid conspiracy against our interests. Let every Republican feel this, and stand by our ticket. It is a good one, no better could be selected, and complimentary votes given to political opponents should at all times be discountenanced, when our own candidates are good and pure men. We call upon every Republican to do his whole duty from now until next Tuesday night, and a grand victory will be ours. Verbum sat sapienti.

Lady Thornhurst's Daughter.

CHAPTER I.

THE FATHER'S RETURN.

The farm known as Redruth Moor is one of the most fertile in Lincolnshire, perhaps in all England.

The house is a picturesque old stone dwelling, which has stood a couple of centuries.

At a little distance in the rear of the house are out-buildings, all indicative of the extreme thrift and prosperity of the owner of Redruth Moor.

That owner, twenty years ago, as today, was Miss Jacobea Redruth. She was and is possessed of first class business abilities, active in her habits, keen, sharp-witted, and her own farm manager.

She was not a woman of social habits, nor particularly given to hospitality. There was a vien of parsimony in her nature, that made social gatherings at her expense a positive pain, but she had come of a fine old country family, and her ancient name and excellent lineage, procured her friendly recognition and formal visits from various county magnates. These visits were as formally returned at stated periods, and but for their small brake in the even course of her existence, Miss Redruth would have led the life of a recluse.

Late one afternoon in May, nearly twenty years ago, Miss Redruth was seated in her drawing room, after her usual afternoon custom. Her chair was drawn up before an open bow-window, and she was looking out into the depths of an apple orchard, which was covered with bloom, with a strangely intent gaze. One might have supposed her engaged in abstruse calculations as to the probable yield of the fruit trees, but a second glance at her deeply contracted brows and troubled face would have testified that her thoughts had a deeper and more unquiet source.

She was a gaunt, grim woman, of middle age and of masculine appearance. She had a hard face and a hard nature. She had no tender womanly ways, no gentle womanly sympathies, no sentimentality, as she loved to say, no fondness for womanly employments.

Redruth Moor was not an entailed estate, and Miss Redruth had inherited it from her father. The present representative of the proud old family was Colonel Redruth, her brother, an army officer, who had spent most of his life in India, and whose arrival she was now momentarily expecting at her home, after an absence from his native land for many years. There was more of dread than of joyous anticipation in the manner of Miss Redruth, as the moment of the Colonel's appearance drew near.

"What can I say to him?" she muttered uneasily. "What will he say to me when he knows all? I wish the meeting were over. Ah, there he comes."

The carriage she had sent to Sleaford to meet her brother was in fact that moment seen turning at a swift pace along the dusty road. It turned in at the wide farm gates and came up the carriage sweep toward the porch. Miss Redruth arose after a mechanical fashion from her chair and went slowly out into the wide hall, advancing to the threshold to meet her relative.

The open carriage came nearer. Upon the back seat sat a gentleman, whose face flushed at sight of her, and who took off his hat as a sudden rush of emotion swept over his soul. The carriage drew up at the porch, and the gentleman sprang lightly out and ran up the steps.

"Jacob! My dear sister," he cried, in deep agitated tones, embracing her, "You have not changed, at least, in the nine years since we parted."

Miss Redruth submitted to the embrace and presented her right cheek to her brother's caress, but she did not offer to kiss him. She was superior to such small weakness.

"I am glad to see you back in England, George," she exclaimed quietly. "You have changed, I think; but then your life has not been so quiet as mine."

She withdrew herself from his arm, and led him into the low, quaint, pleasant drawing room.

The Colonel halted just within the threshold, and looked about the room with an eager, expectant gaze.

He was a handsome, distinguished looking man, of some fifty years, with a complexion deeply bronzed by Indian suns, with keen dark eyes, a grand head, and black hair already streaked with gray. He wore iron-gray military whiskers, and his massive eyebrows were of iron-grey also, giving to his noble countenance a look of sternness and command that well became him.

"Where is Ignatia?" he asked, his face suddenly clouding with disappointment. "Why is not my child here to welcome her father? She—she is not ill?"

"No, George," answered Miss Redruth, with embarrassment. "She does not know that you are expected to-day. I thought it best not to tell her, and—and I sent her out in her little pony chaise for a drive."

"Intending to let her find me here on her return?" said the Colonel, his brow clearing. "You meant to surprise her? Will she be back soon?"

"Sit down, George," said Miss Redruth, with preceptible uneasiness. "I have something to tell you before Ignatia comes. Did—did you hear anything over at Sleaford? Did you meet any one you used to know?"

"I did not," said the Colonel wonderingly, seating himself at a window commanding a view of the road. "Was there anything for me to hear?" he added, with a sudden change of countenance. "The child has not grown deformed, nor had the small-pox, nor—"

"How old do you think the 'child' is?" demanded Miss Redruth grimly. "You left her a little girl, and she seems but a little girl to you still. But she is twenty years old, a woman grown—"

"Ah, yes," sighed the Colonel. "She has left behind her her childhood, but she will be something dearer and nearer to me than simply a child. She will be my companion, my friend. She will console me in part for the loss of her mother. Does she fulfill her childish promise of beauty and grace?"

"She does," said Miss Redruth, setting her lips firmly together.

"I know that she is good," said the Indian soldier, with tender emphasis. "I remember well her loving, sensitive nature, her winning ways, her bright, impetuous spirit. She had a noble intellect—you do not mean, Jacob, that she is not so clear-headed as she was?" he added, in sudden alarm.

"No, she knows enough," was the reluctant reply.

"Ah!" said the Colonel, trying to smile. "She has a lover, then? That is to be expected at her age."

"You should have come home sooner, George," said Miss Redruth. "People who have children should stay with them and take care of them."

"I could not well come home earlier, Jacob," said the Colonel. "My daughter is an heiress, and as such must take her place in society. If she has an unworthy lover, I will undertake to wean her heart from him. Surely she cannot resist her father's loving counsels."

"It is too late for counsels," said Miss Redruth, with a sort of grim desperation. "Ignatia Redruth is beyond the reach of advice. You need not blame me, George. Ignatia herself will clear my skirts of blame. It is not my fault if she has wrecked your hopes, and made herself a bed of living coals to lie on."

The Colonel's face grew suddenly pale. The grizzled moustache on his upper lip trembled convulsively.

"What has she done?" he asked in a hoarse whisper.

"Married a dissolute fellow—"

"Married? Good heavens!"

"It is so, George," said Miss Redruth. "She has been married nearly four years."

"Four years? And you never told me? She never wrote that she was married. Four years!"

"Yes. Let me tell you how it happened. About four years ago a regiment was stationed within twenty miles of us, and its officers were to be met at all the best houses in this part of the country. Ignatia was but a school girl, under a governess, to whom I left the direction of her pursuits and movements. Ignatia had a number of girl friends, whom she was often allowed to visit. At the house of one of these friends she met Captain Digby Holm. He was handsome, after the style girls like, I suppose, and became the rage, as the phrase is. He comes of a good family, but is dissolute. His own father has disowned him. He is thoroughly bad, but has a specious appearance. He fell in love with Ignatia and she with him, and one day the precious pair came into this very room and asked my consent to their marriage."

"Well?" said the Colonel, his face ghastly white, his voice trembling.

"Of course I refused my consent," said Miss Redruth. "I sent Ignatia to her schoolroom, and after lecturing Captain Holm, dismissed him from the house. I thought that was the end of the matter, but it seemed it was not. The upshot of the matter was, that Captain Holm and my niece were married quietly without my knowledge, by special license, at Sleaford, to which place Ignatia and her governess had gone in the pony chaise, on pretence of wishing to match Berlin wool, but really to meet the fellow."

"But how could he procure a license to marry a child of sixteen, without the consent of her relatives?"

"Captain Holm is not punctilious about speaking truth," said Miss Redruth bitterly. "He may have declared Ignatia to be of age. At any rate, he returned in the chaise with the girl and her governess, and and announced himself to me as Ignatia's husband. I did not know what to do. I dared not write to you."

"And this precious son-in-law of mine—is he in the house?" demanded the Colonel sternly, with lowering brows.

"No; he lived here with Ignatia for a year or more, for I would not let my niece go from under my roof. He sold out his commission, and the child has not seen him in three years. I believe he is roving about the Continent. When he knew her, my niece was but a sallow, unformed child. She is now very beautiful, but that, of course, he does not know. Neither does he know that she is now an heiress."

The Colonel arose and paced the floor with quick and agitated steps.

"Don't reproach me, George," said Miss Redruth. "Have I not suffered? How could I have done differently?"

"Tied to such a scoundrel, who had not even the virtue of faithfulness—"

"She need not be tied to him, George," interposed Miss Redruth eagerly. "I consulted Mr. Ainsley, my lawyer, you know. He says that it will be easy to procure a divorce for Ignatia."

"Why should not the marriage be set aside as illegal?" demanded the Colonel.

Miss Redruth colored.

"Because—because—" she stammered. "You see, George, the Holms are rich. Only two lives stand between Capt. Holm and a great estate—"

"And you want me—a Redruth, and a rich man—to claim alimony for my daughter?" cried the Colonel, in a stern ringing voice. "For shame, Jacobea. You would have me trade on her wrongs? You would have her accept money from this scoundrel?"

"No, no. Hear me," exclaimed Miss Redruth. "I would not have the marriage declared illegal, simply because there is another person to be considered who has not yet been mentioned."

"And who may this person be?"

"Ignatia's child!"

"Her child! Ignatia's child? Great Heaven! Am I dreaming?"

"No, I wish you were," said Miss Redruth. "There is a child of three years, a girl. For her sake, as you must see yourself, the legality of the marriage must not be questioned."

The Colonel did not answer. He strode back and forth with bowed head and gathered brows, and Miss Redruth dared not question him, nor even attempt to soothe him.

"I don't think Ignatia so entirely to blame," she ventured to say, after a little.

The Colonel gave no sign that he heard the observation.

"This is a turning-point in her life," said Miss Redruth, after another uneasy silence. "I hope you don't intend to cast her off, George."

Still no answer from the Colonel.

Miss Redruth turned from the contemplation of his face to the open window, her firm, hard mouth growing firmer and harder, as she compressed it closely. Neither spoke again until a little basket chaise, drawn by a stout, shaggy pony, came leisurely along the highway and turned into the open farm gates, and Miss Redruth then exclaimed:

"Ignatia is come. How will you receive her?"

The Colonel answered in a hoarse voice, without looking up:

"Send her to me. Stay—you need not tell her I am here. Let her come in here. And let us meet alone, Jacob."

Miss Redruth arose and withdrew, the look of apprehension deepening in her face.

CHAPTER II.

IGNATIA.

The little basket chaise drew up before the porch of the stone house, and the young lady who held the reins tossed them to a stable lad who was at hand, and alighted, helping out a little child The two ran lightly up the steps.

The hall was deserted when the pair entered it.

"Where's Aunty Jacob?" cried the young mother, in a gay, sweet voice. Her chair is empty. Shall we find her?"

She moved lightly across the floor, and then her eyes suddenly resting upon the grand figure and stern face of the returned soldier, she came to an abrupt halt. A cry of terror and horror, strangely mingled, came from her white lips. Her face blanched; her limbs trembled, she panted for breath.

The father and daughter stood face to face after a separation of nine long years!

The Colonel scarcely recognized the sallow, romping little creature he had left, in this magnificent woman. Her tall and slender figure was instinct with a stately grace. Her every movement indicated refinement and thorough breeding.

The Colonel did not move toward her, nor did the sternness of his countenance relax.

His daughter took a step toward him, a cruel agitation convulsing her frame. Her arms dropped, and her hands were clasped together. It seemed as if she would have knelt before him.

"Father! O father!" she cried, in an anguished appeal. "Father, speak to me."

That pleading cry went to the Colonel's soul. He forgot his daughter's error, remembering that she was his child—his only child. His heart melted within him. He silently opened his arms, and with a gasping cry Ignatia sprang forward and was folded to his breast.

For a little while there was silence between them, broken only by the girl's sobs and the soft caresses the Colonel showered upon her head and face. Then he drew her to a sofa, still enfolding her in his arms.

"Father," whispered Ignatia, brokenly, "do you know? Has Aunt Jacob told you—"

"I know all, my daughter," answered the Colonel gently.

"And you forgive me? You will not cease to love me."

The father answered only by a soft caress. Her terror and anguish aroused his tenderness and pity, and he had never in all her life loved her with such a yearning love as he felt for her at this moment when she lay trembling against his breast.

"Aunt Jacob has told me of your marriage, Ignatia," he said. "I will not upbraid you for keeping the matter a secret from me all these years. How long is it since you saw Captain Holm?"

"It is nearly three years, father," was the low reply. "I have not seen him since the child was three months old."

"Do you love him still?" asked the Colonel.

"Oh, no, no!" she murmured. "I would rather die than live with him as his wife."

"And this child is yours and his?"

"Yes, father; but she is not like him in character."

The Colonel looked at the little creature. She was scarcely three years old, and it was easy to see she had inherited no taint of her profligated father's nature.

"What is your name, little one?" asked the Colonel.

"Georgia Redruth" was the prompt answer.

The Colonel held out one hand with a smile to the child. When he had throned his tiny namesake upon his knee, his daughter knew she was forgotten.

She presently raised her head from its resting place and told him her story. It differed little from the narrative Miss Redruth had already given her brother. It seemed indeed, to the father, as he had heard her, that the girl had been more "sinned against than sinning."

"Do you suppose," he asked, "that Captain Holm knows now that you are an heiress?"

"I am sure he does not," answered the deserted young wife. "If he had known it he would have retuned to me. He never dreamed that you were the next heir to poor Uncle Ralph."

"You parted in a quarrel?"

"Yes, father, but it was not a sudden outbreak. He came home one evening from the town where his regiment was stationed in a terrible humor. We found afterward that every officer in his regiment had cut him, for conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman. He was obliged to sell out his commission as soon as possible after that."

"He was full of rage, which he vented upon me. He cursed himself for falling in love with me, when he might have won an heiress.

"At last he took his effects and mounted his horse, and rode toward Sleaford at a furious pace. I have never seen him since. I do not know whether he is living or dead."

"Your young life shall not be blighted by this scoundrel!" cried the Colonel. "The law shall free you from any claims he may choose to make upon you when he discovers that his deserted wife is really an heiress. My first movement shall be to procure you a release from the villain."

"And until you have obtained a divorce from him, we will not go to Redruth."

"Will they let me keep my child?" asked Ignatia.

"Of course, dear."

"Dear father!" she said softly, "my whole life shall try to show my love and gratitude to you."

Before the Colonel could reply, Miss Redruth stalked into the room, unmistakably anxious.

A single glance set her mind at rest. The Colonel held his grandchild on his knee, and Ignatia was looking up at him with grateful eyes.

"All is forgiven and forgotten," said the Colonel cheerfully. "Ignatia and the child will start for London with me by the morning train."

"I will not take her to Redruth while that scoundrel has the shadow of a claim upon her."

The evening was passed pleasantly and without restraint. No further allusion was made to Capt. Holm, and Col. Redruth told stories of his Indian life, charming his hearers into forgetfulness of Ignatia's profligate husband.

At about two o'clock the next day, Col. Redruth, Ignatia and little Gorgia took their leave of Miss Redruth, and drove away from the Moor.

They were obliged to wait nearly an hour for the mail down train.

The gray dusk was falling when they steamed into the station at Huntingdon. A porter entered and lighted a ceiling lamp, and went out again.

Suddenly two young men came sauntering along the platform.

One approached the door of the coach occupied by Col. Redruth's family, and looked in. A guard came forward and addressed the young men, and ushered them into the very carriage occupied by the returned soldier.

Ignatia hurriedly drew her veil over her face, and sank back upon her seat, trembling and panic-stricken. Col. Redruth noticed that she seemed to cower in the shadows of her corner.

The next instant the train was once more on its way to the southward.

Col. Redruth looked at the intruders closely. One of them was an ordinary looking young man in military uniform, with a loud laugh and pompous manners. The Colonel did not bestow him a second glance.

His companion was slender, tall and graceful, and with a dashing, spirited air. His manner was a strange compound of grace, insolence and gentlemanliness. He was of florid complexion, his forehead high, his eyes of a blueish gray, and possessed of a strange power of attraction and fascination. His eyes reminded the Colonel, oddly enough, of the eyes of an Indian serpent.

"That man looks like an angel!" thought the Colonel. "And I believe he is at heart a devil!"

He withdrew his gaze slowly. At the same instant Igatia breathed into his ear: "That is he—my husband."

The Destination of the French Indemnity.

Now that a considerable portion of the war indemnity—1,500,000,000 francs—has been liquidated by France, it is interesting to know what becomes of the money. Some information is supplied by the Prussian correspondent of the Times. He says:

In the first place, 325,000,000 francs, being the purchase money for the Alsatian railways, must be deducted from the sum total. The rest 1,175,000,000 francs, is equal to 313,000,000 thalers. Of this 4,000,000 thalers have been reserved to endow the Generals, and another 4,000,000 thalers to assist those members of the landwehr and reserve whose pecuniary circumstances have suffered in the war. Two million thalers more will indemnify the Germans expelled from France; 7,000,000 thalers are alloted to ship-owners whose vessels were seized or detained in harbor by the blockade; and about 20,000,000 thalers have to go to the inhabitants of Alsace and Lorraine for damages sustained and provisions supplied both to French and Germans in the campaign. Add to this 5,000,000 thalers required for repairs and rolling-stock of the Alsace-Lorraine railways, and we have a total of 42,000,000 thalers consumed in redressing some of the evils wrought by the war. Of the remaining 271,000,000 thalers, government would, under a new act of Parliament, be entitled to appropriate 240,000,000 thalers as a pension for invalids; but as the whole sum is not required at once, and as the individual states are anxious to have a portion of their war expenditures reimbursed, it is assumed that only 31,000,000 will revert to the pension list for the present, and the remaining 240,000,000 be distributed. The division is made according to the number of men supplied by each State. In other words, Prussia, or rather the late North German Confederacy, receives five-sixths of the whole, the remaining sixth being portioned out between Bavaria, Wurtemburg, Baden, and the southern half of Hesse, which before the war had a separate contingent. The 200,000,000 thalers thus accruing to North Germany will be employed in replenishing the war treasury, and cancelling a portion of the war debt. The war treasury amounts, it is well known, to 30,000,000 thalers. As to the war debt, treasury bonds to the amount of 35,000,000 thalers were redeemed within the last few weeks, 68,000,000 more fell due before the 1st of February, and 17,000,000 paper money are to be withdrawn from circulation in the course of the present year.

A Defunct Moon.

Galignani's Messenger says:

"Our readers are acquainted with M. Stanislaus Meunier's effort to create a new science, Comparative Geology, by examining the structure of the numerous aerolites in the museums. We have already spoken of the various genera distinguished by him with the names of Chantonnite, tadierite, aumalite, montrejite, etc., according to the places where the meteorites had fallen; but we now see, from the article of M. Victor Meunier, that all these scattered elements are assuming a different shape, which deserves a place among the hypotheses which have some probability in their favor. Starting from the fact that the meteorites in our possession are minerals of definite chemical composition, M. Meunier inquires from what part of our solar system they may be supposed to come? Now, as the only solid planets we know of are those which lie within the girdle of the telescopic ones, themselves included—as Jupiter and Saturn are liquid or nearly so, while Uranus and Neptune are gaseou.—there is every probability that aerolites can only proceed from the first mentioned region. Again, their chemical composition leads to the belief that they are fragments of a planet which has ceased to exist; and as they fall on our globe, why might not this erratic celestial body have been a satelite of ours? To avoid circumlocution, M. Meunier gives this hypothetical planet a name: Geologia. The evidence of its existence many thousand years ago is of course only circumstantial, but on the other hand, there is no direct proof of its not having existed. The fragments of Geologia may have been whirling around the earth without our being aware of it, except by the occasional falling of one of them within our grasp, owing to some unknown accident. It is not the least curious circumstance of this new theory that it sprang into existence during the siege of Paris, when men's minds were engrossed with far different subjects for meditation."

A Runaway Banker Pays a Poor Washerwoman Her Deposit with Interest.

[From the San Francisco Chronicle.]

Mrs. Josslyn is a washerwoman, and works very hard for her living. In the palmy days of Harry Meiggs she deposited with him no less an amount than $2,500, and when Meiggs and her money were gone, the time in which a woman could lay up so large a sum from the profits of her business had gone also. But she washed on, and kept her head above water. Some two or three months ago she read in the Overland Monthly, or some other publication, of how much money her old banker had made in South America building railroads, and, with a beautiful faith in human nature which cannot be too highly commended, she embarked upon the Panama steamer, and wended her way to the sultry South, where Meiggs now holds sway. She sought the millionaire in the gorgeous residence so graphically described in the Overland, and presented her bank-book and told her tale. Meiggs listened, and when she had finished he handed her a check for the amount of the deposit and interest from its date to the time of payment. She departed a wealthier and happier woman, and returned to San Francisco, where she arrived by the last steamer, and if anybody wants to have a personal difficulty of a high character, they can secure the result in in its most brilliant form by speaking unfavorably of Harry Meiggs in her presence.

INCIPIENT CONSUMPTION.

The symptoms which usually precede Consumption are mostly of an insidious character, but quite marked enough to indicate to the intelligent physician what course of treatment ought to be followed in order to prevent its full development. If these earlier monitors were heeded Consumption, as a wide spread and devastating disease would be almost unknown. DR. KEYSER'S LUNG CURE, in all recent attacks, will cleanse the morbid poison from the system and restore that circle of life which is too valuable to be estimated by mere dollars and cents. How many cases are there like that of Mr. Irvin, published below, which, if treated like his, would soon get well:

DR. KEYSER: You have asked my opinion about your cough medicine, and I can cheerfully say that I have used your Pectoral Syrup on one occasion during last spring. I thought at one time that I was surely going to have some serious pulmonary disease, as I coughed up large quantities of matter. I found my disease would not yield to anything else, as I had tried various remedies, and after the first dose of your Pectoral I received quite a relief, and I had not used the whole bottle until I was entirely cured. JAMES IRVIN, No. 203 Third avenue.

Dr. Keyser's Lung Cure is sold at $1 50 per bottle, at his medical office, 167 Liberty street. If your druggist does not keep it, remit $5 to Dr. Keyser and he will send it by express. Pamphlet on Chronic Lung diseases sent wherever it is wanted by mail.

AN UNPROTECTED SYSTEM.

Do not fancy because you feel strong that you are impregnable to sickness. Whole neighborhoods are frequently prostrated at this season by malarious fevers. Vigorous muscles and strong sinews, broad shoulders and sound lungs, are no defence against the mephitic vapors of autumn. Frames which have withstood the summer heat may succumb now. Many an athletic man, whose family depends for its support on his industry, now lies prostrate, weak and helpless as a babe, under the periodical assaults of chills and fever, or bilious remittent fever. This could not be if all were wise enough to provide against such a contingency, by toning and fortifying the system with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. This approved vegetable tonic is absolutely harmless, so that it is sheer folly not to take it as a safeguard at a season when diseases of the liver, the stomach, the bowels, and indeed all the visceral organs are generally prevalent. To keep the system in order and insure health, or to put it in order when this precaution has been neglected, is the duty of every human being who values life. For both these purposes Hostetter's Bitters is designed, and it answers both. Petty local dealers are endeavoring, in many parts of the country, to substitute preparations made of impure and dangerous materials in its stead Give them a wide berth They are prepared by unskilful experimentors, who want to turn a penny at the expense of the public health.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,
FOR DISEASES OF THE THROAT AND LUNGS, SUCH AS COUGHS, COLDS, WHOOPING COUGH, BRONCHITIS, ASTHMA AND CONSUMPTION.

The few compositions which have won the confidence of mankind and become household words among not only one but many nations, must have extraordinary virtues. Perhaps no one ever secured so wide a reputation or maintained it so long as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It has been known to the public about forty years, by a long continued series of marvellous cures, which have won for it a confidence in its virtues never equalled by any other medicines. It still makes the most effectual cures of Coughs, Colds, Consumption, that can be made by medical skill. Indeed the CHERRY PECTORAL has really robbed these dangerous diseases of their terrors, to a great extent, and given a feeling of immunity from their fatal effects, which is well founded, if the remedy be taken in season. Every family should have it in their closet for the ready and prompt relief of its members. Sickness, suffering and even life is saved by this timely protection. The prudent should not neglect it, and the wise will not. Keep it by you for the protection it affords in sudden attacks, and by its timely use.

NEW YORK, October 2, 1871.

Gold dull; steady at 114¾@114⅞. Loans were made at from 3-32 per cent. per day to flat for use. Clearances $62,500,000. Government bonds were higher to-day on the entire list than on Saturday, owing chiefly to the fact that the Treasury will buy at least double the amount of five-twenties advertised for during September. The Secretary reserves the right to deviate from his October programme. The speculative feeling on Stock Exchange was very weak this afternoon, and the market was unsettled by the increased activity in money and various rumors in regard to the arrest of city officials. Hannibal and St. Joseph common stock broke from 61½ to 56, and Erie declined from 32½ to 30¾. The decline in the other shares was less marked and although entirely speculative, best was heavy and lower. Central Railroad, New Jersey, has declared quarterly dividends at 2½ per cent., payable October 20th. Stock market at the close was steady and on a downward course, prices were checked for the time being. Money more active, ruling rates 7 per cent. State bonds generally dull; new South Carolina weak and declining 2 per cent.

PITTSBURGH MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, MONDAY, October 2, 1871.

ASHES—Common Soda ash, 4@4¼; refined 4½@4¾; Pearls, 9; Pots, 7½; Nitrate Soda, 4½.

BEESWAX—Quoted at 30@33c.

BUTTER—There is no falling off in the receipts, and the supply of common and medium grades is unusually large and steadily increasing; prime to choice roll is in fair demand and may be quoted at 21@22.

BROOM CORN—There is rather more inquiry, and, with limited arrivals and a comparatively light supply, the market is firmer; small sales at 5@7 cts—the demand is mainly for small lots.

CANNED FRUITS—Steady but unchanged.

CHESTNUTS—The receipts are increasing and prices are lower; we now quote at $10 per bushel.

CHEESE—The market is still reported steady, but there is no further change in prices; 14@14½ for Goshen; 13@13½ for Factory and 12@12½ for Dairy.

CRANBERRIES—Are coming in more freely, and we reduce our quotations to $10.50@11 per bbl.

COUNTRY MEAT—There is rather more inquiry, and the stock in this market is very light. Country Lard unchanged at 8½@9.

CORN MEAL—Is very quiet and the demand is mainly of a retail character; may be quoted in small lots at 85@90 cts per bushel.

CEMENT—Louisville, $2.50@3.00 per bbl. Rosendale, $4.00@4.50; Calcined Plaster, $4.25@4.50.

CIDER—The arrivals continue very light for the season, and the market is quiet and unchanged, $5@8 per bbl., as to quality.

CARBON OIL—There is a fair jobbing trade but no change whatever in prices, 22½@23 for standard brands.

DRIED FRUIT—Peaches may be quoted at 7½@8 for quarters, and 9@10 for prime halves. Nothing doing in apples. Blackberries, at 12@14 cts.

EGGS—The demand is increasing, and, with continued light receipts, the market is firm, and fresh may be quoted steady at 25.

FRUITS—Apples are arriving freely, but the demand, as yet, is up to the supply, and prices are still maintained, $2.50@3.00 per bbl, for fair to good, and $3.25@3.50 for choice. The supply of Quinces is pretty well reduced, and, with a steady demand, prices are firmer, though not quotably higher, $5@7 per bbl, as to quality and condition. Grapes steady at 5@6 cts per lb.

FLOUR—We can report a continued firm market, though there is no excitement, and, so far as we can learn, no material improvement in the demand; however, stocks are only fair, holders generally seem indifferent about selling, while the recent advance in prices is fully maintained; good to choice spring extras, $6.75@7; choice (old) Minnesota baker's flour, $7.50; good to choice red winter wheat, $6.75@7.00.

GRAIN—There was a fair attendance at the grain exchange to-day, but the volume of business was small, which is owing to the fact that the offerings were light; besides, holders are indifferent about selling unless they can realize full prices. The following sales were reported:

50 sks	red and white wheat, (mixed)	$1 42
100 "	white wheat.	1 45
200 "	red wheat.	1 40

From the above it will be seen that wheat may be fairly quoted at $1.40 for red, and $1.45 for white, and the offerings continue light, and the demand considerably in excess of the supply. Oats steady but unchanged; mixed, 43@43½; white, 44@45; we are cognizant of 3,000 bushels white having been offered at 45, with 44½ bid. Corn is firm with considerable inquiry; we advance our quotations on shelled to 67@68. Rye is still quoted at 85@88. Barley—No. 1 spring 83@85; fall 88@90.

GROCERIES—Coffee—Importers of Brazil coffees are reaping a rich harvest in the way of profits on purchases made in July and August, with the prospect of obtaining still higher prices, in view of the fact that no goods can be brought from Rio at less than 1c per lb over the market rates now ruling at New York and Baltimore. Cargoes are selling at 18c gold in bond on the sea board, while invoices readily command 16@17 and 18c gold, duty paid. So confident are the eastern operators in another advance that coffees are being sought for in the western cities; and purchases to the extent of 2,700 bags were made by a Baltimore firm in St. Louis last week at rates below the cost of importation, to say nothing of the freight overland to St. Louis. Such transactions prove that the western merchants are not alive to a sense of the situation and will be compelled to replenish their stocks at very high cost. The stock in first hands is small and well under control country merchants would do well to lay in fresh stocks just now, for it is almost certain that our quotations will be advanced before the close of this week. Sugar—Importers of raw sugars have at last let go and the eastern market is full of goods offering at reduced prices. The prospective crop is in very good condition, and unless frost interferes the product of the plantations will be very largely in excess of last year. Molasses—New Orleans dull. The finer grades of Syrups are well up in prices with no good prospect of a decline from the late advance. Rice—Carolina scarce at all points with sales at very high figures. We notice a sale of 30 tierces by Habercham & Co. rice dealers, in Baltimore, to go to Charleston at 9c per lb. This looks like "carrying coals to New Castle," but such is the fact. The present crop was damaged largely by the storms which over-run the south in September, and will fall short about 20 per cent from last year.

SUGARS—Refined—Standard Hards, 14; A. 13¾; B. 13; Ex. C, 12¾; C. Yellow, 12¼, Porto Rico Sugars—Choice, 11½; Prime, 11; Good, 10½. Cuba Sugars, 10¼@11. Demarara, 12¼@12¾. Sugar House Sugars—Knight's Extra C. Yellow, 11¾; C. C. 11½; other grades, 9@11. New Orleans Sugars—None in market.

COFFEE—Fancy Rio, 21; Prime, 20; Good, 19; Fair, 18@18½. Java, 25@28. Laguayra. 19@20. Mocha, 45. Roasted Coffee, pure, 22@23. Lower grades, 20@21.

SYRUPS—Havemyer & Elder's, 70. White Honey, 70. Lovering's, 60. Durant's, 70. Brune's, 70; other grades, 48@60. New Orleans Molasses, 60@68.

RICE—Choice Carolina, 9¾; Good, 9½; Fair, 8¾. Rangoon, 8@8½. Patna, 8.

SPICES—Pepper, 22. Allspice, 18. Cassia, 50. Cloves, 20. Nutmegs, $1.30.

HONEY—Steady at 25@30 cts per lb.

HIDES—Green Salted, 10½@11¼; Green Butcher's, 8; Dry Flint, 21@22; Green Calf Skins, 14@15; Green Salted Calf, 17@18.

HUSKS—Quoted at 2¾@2¾ cts.

HEMP—Quoted at $165 per ton.

HAY—The arrivals of baled, particularly by river, have been unusually large within the past few days, and the market in consequence is a little weak and prices a shade lower; we now quote at $23@25 per ton, fair to prime.

LIME—Perrysburg white, $2.00@2.25 per bbl; Cleveland $2.25; Eastern, $1.75.

MILL FEED—Is steady with a fair jobbing trade at $21@22 for Bran; $23@25 for Seconds; $33@35 for Middlings, and $43@45 for Oil Meal.

ONIONS—The receipts continue liberal, and the demand is only fair, but prices are unchanged, $3.00@3.50 per bbl, in small lots—the outside figure for Silver Skins.

OIL—Lard Oil is in rather better demand; No. 1 Extra, 75@77, in a jobbing way—round lots, of course, can be had considerably below these quotations.

POTATOES—Irish, steady but unchanged; 65@70c per bushel. Sweets are still quoted at $2.50@3.00 per bbl for Baltimore's, and $3.25@3.50 for Jersey's.

POULTRY—Dull but unchanged; live Chickens, 45@55 cts per pair, by the coop.

PROVISIONS—Plain shoulders, 7¼@8; ribbed sides, 8@8¾; short ribbed sides, 8½@8¾; clear sides, 9@9¼; sugar cured shoulders, 10@10¼; Breakfast Bacon, 11@11½; sugar cured Hams, 16@17. Prime kettle Lard, in tcs, 10@10¼. Canvassed Dried Beef, 18@18½. Mess Pork, $14@14½.

PEA NUTS—Steady at 12@13 cts.

RAGS—Sales, 4@4¼ cts per lb.

SEEDS—Timothy Seed continues dull, but prices are unchanged; $3.25@3.50, per bushel, for small lots. Clover Seed is quiet and nominally unchanged, $7. Flaxseed continues scarce and is in demand; $1.80@1.85 per bushel.

SUMAC—Sales Tennessee Sumac at 4½ cts.

WILLOWS—Quoted firm at 10 cts.

CATTLE.

The supply of cattle to-day was heavy; in addition to the 31 loads from the west, there were several loads brought over from East Liberty, at least six, which would made 37 cars, or, calculating 19 to the car, 703 head; add to this 300 driven in from the adjoining country, and we have in all 1,000 head, which, ordinarily, is a heavy supply, but especially was it so to-day. Cattle were plenty and (the butchers thought) remarkably cheap last Monday, as well as the Monday preceding, and they bought largely, some of them taking enough to do two and three weeks, and, this being the case, there was not even an average demand, whereas the supply, as already noted, was unusually large, and the market was a hard one, generally regarded as being the worst of the season. It is probable that nearly, if not altogether, one-third of the entire number were left over—some of the drovers placed the number unsold at one-half—and this, as is well known to those who know anything about this market, is something very unusual. Most of the regular dealers, as well as the outsiders, had more or less left over, some of them out of five cars sold two loads; some with two cars, sold one, and we are cognizant of one dealer, who had a very fine bunch of steers, out of which, at last accounts, not a single one had been sold.

The quality, as a general thing, was poor, the great bulk of the offerings being of the lower grades, and, while all kinds ruled lower, prime butchers stock sold more readily and at relatively better prices than the common and medium grades, say at from 5 to 5¾, and it required something good to bring the outside quotation. Many of the butchers were enabled to buy very good cattle at 4@4½.

In regard to the immediate future of the cattle trade, the prospect at present is not very flattering. Dealers generally expect that the offerings will be heavy for some time to come, as the country is represented as being full to overflowing, and farmers and stock growers generally as being anxious to sell, and, therefore, a further decline is anticipated. Cattle are being sold here now for less than they cost one year ago—it is hard, we know, but there is no help for it.

Jacob Lobman reports 35 head of good to prime Washington Co. stock at 4@5.

Jacob Emmell had 12 head of prime Butler Co. steers, averaging 1,300 lbs; held at 6¼—cost about 6¼, having been fed since last fall.

Flinner & Sheitemantle, 18 head of common to prime Butler Co. stock at 3½@5.

S Marks & Bro reports 82 fair to prime Ohio steers at 4@5½.

Neeley & McMillan report 31 head of Washington Co. stock at 4¼@5¼.

S Kraus reports 45 fair to good Ohio stock at 4¼@5¼.

Rothchilds & Zeigler report 53 head, from Washington Co, and one load from East Liberty at 4½@5¼.

Jacob Stumberg, 7 from Washington Co, and 30 head of Western.

Peter Hartman reports 30 head of Western stock at 4@5 cts.

M Varner reports 34 head of Green Co. stock at 3½@4¼; 19 head, for Bayment, (from Indiana) at 3½@4¼.

Greenawald & Kahn report 2 loads from Cincinnati and 2 loads on commission, for W L Wilson, from Ohio, at 4@5¼—about one half left over.

Sadler, Haven & Co. sold 2 loads of Kentucky hill steers, fair quality, at 4½@5¼; 2 loads from Noble Co., Ohio (for Browning) at 4@5¼—about one load left over.

J & S Needy report 40 head of good to prime Ohio stock at 4@5½.

Keefer & Beyer, 33 head of fair to common Washington Co. stock at 3½@4¼—about one half left over.

S Lowenstein, 1 car load of Western stock at 3½@4¼.

Haziewood & Blackstock report 5 loads, of which 3 loads were left over; sold at 3½@5.

Sol Trautman reports two loads of Ohio stock at 4½@5¼—12 left over.

Jas Hanlin reports 24 head of Washington Co. stock at 4@5.

Holmes, Lafferty & Co. report 5 loads of western cattle—two loads left over.

Carr & McAllister, 60 head of fair to prime Western stock at 4½@5½.

Norris & Wright report 19 head of good to prime Washington Co. stock at 4½@5¼.

Geo Minisinger, 6 head of Beaver Co. stock at 5@5¾.

SHEEP AND LAMBS.

The number on sale to-day was comparatively small, scarcely 1,5 0 head, though, nevertheless, it was fully up to the demand. As we noted in our last report, the demand for sheep in this market has commenced to fall off as the butchers are buying an increased number of hogs, and besides, this kind of stock is now and has been all this year, higher relatively than either cattle or hogs. However, as yet there is no quotable decline in prices, and there will have to be a decline in the country before there is much of a break here; sheep sold at from $2.50@5.50 per head, and lambs at $1.50@4.

Keefer & Krause sold 31 lambs, at $2.50@3.00 per head.

Wm. Fowler of Allegheny Co. reports 111; sold sheep, at $1.50@4.50; and lambs, at $1.50@3.50.

Adam Eckert reports 12 sheep, at $3@4.50, and 76 lambs, at $1.50@3.00.

Sheitemantle & Flinner report 170 lambs, at from $2@3.50.

John Drum sold 85 lambs an average of $3⅜; 85 sheep, on commission, for Meanor, at an average of about $3⅜.

Neeley & Fairly report 216; sold sheep at $2.40@5; lambs, at $1.50@4.

McNeese & Bingham of Butler Co. reported 350 head.

Jas. Shaw of Mercer Co. reports 87; lambs at an average of $2.50, and sheep at 3@4.

R. McCaslin reports 100 sheep at an average of 5 cts; 65 lambs, at $2.50@3.

HOGS.

We can report a fair retail trade in this class of stock, at about last week's prices, say 5@5½ cts in a retail way. The offerings although not large were fully up to the demand.

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

Jimmy Martin was on hand to-day, and made himself conspicuous by sitting on the top of a high fence taking observations. Perhaps he was keeping a sharp look out for bulls.

Needy was very emphatic in his opinion about the market, to-day as being one of the meanest of the season.

James Hunter, (with Holmes, Lafferty & Co.) has fitted up a very snug and commodious feed yard, in Allegheny. He can accommodate comfortably some 10 loads of cattle.

John H. Glass, of the firm of Holmes, Lafferty & Co. who has been absent in the far west for several months, is expected to reach home this week.

Julius Voetter, hog merchant, at East Liberty, returned from Europe last week.

The numerous friends of Sadler, Haven & Co. will be gratified to learn that their business is steadily increasing.

PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, MONDAY October 2, 1871.

The petroleum trade continues very quiet; it is true, the market has been stronger during the past two days, and prices a shade better, but in our market there is nothing doing except filling old contracts, and the most of those have been filled. If the market would afford it, their could be considerable oil sold for the remaining months of this year, as the great majority of our refiners have but few contracts unsettled; however, at current prices there is no margin, and the only alternative for our manufacturers is to close their works as soon as they get through with previous sales—contracts made early in the season when prices were much higher than they have been at any time since.

CRUDE.

The same old story; a very dull market, and no change in prices. Parker quoted at $4.65, with a sale of 500 bbls reported at that place.

REFINED.

Firm but very quiet; spot, 24; October, 24½; November or December, 24¾. No sales.

RIVER NEWS.

The river at this point has undergone little or no change since the date of our last report. Weather clear, cool and pleasant.

The E. H. Durfee has been withdrawn from the St. Louis & Keokuk trade, and is loading at St. Louis for New Orleans.

A Washington special to the Cincinnati Commercial says:

"A circular has been issued by the Treasury Department to Custom Inspectors of steam vessels and others, informing them that so much of the law in reference to securing one or more lock-up safety valves from the control of all persons engaged in navigating such vessels, is hereby suspended until further orders, so far as said rules apply to towboats plying on the Mississippi River, or any of its branches."

—In our report of the interview of Secretary Boutwell with the steamboatmen, published in our issue of yesterday, we omitted two important points. One was in answer to a question asked by a steamboatman concerning the law requiring the use of "fusil plugs," as regards the make. The Secretary said, so that the plugs used came fully up to the requirement of the law, it made no difference where they were bought. The other was the matter of hull measurement, the Secretary giving it as his consruction of the law, that boats should be measured between decks, or, according to what is known as Custom House measurement. Some one remarking that steamboats were frequently not measured in that way, the Secretary said he would see that the thing was corrected.

Yesterday, after his visit to the Exposition, the Hon. Benjamin Eggleston and Aaron F. Perry made it their pleasure to show Secretary Boutwell the attractions of our beautiful suburbs. In the course of the drive, Mr. Eggleston took occasion to ask the Secretary if it would be possible for him to suspend the enforcement of the steamboat law. Mr. Boutwell said it was beyond his power. Mr. Eggleston then remarked that it was a very important matter, and hoped the Secretary would lend his assistance to the repeal or modication of such laws as the steamboatmen considered grievous. Mr. Boutwell promised to do all within his power, and in accordance with his own judgment of what was proper. Now is the time for steamboatmen to strike, and if they would succeed they should take prompt, decisive and intelligent action.—Cin. Chronicle.

—The late John W. McKee, river correspondent, who died at Cairo on the 24th inst., leaves a widow and four little girls—the eldest twelve years, and the youngest only a few months old. The deceased was born in Pittsburgh; was formerly a printer, and an engineer on several Cumberland river steamers, and went to Cairo from Smithland in 1860, to clerk on Given, Haynes & Co.'s afterwards Williamson, Haynes & Co.'s wharfboat, where he remained until 1864. Since that time he had been exclusively engaged as a newspaper correspondent. The deceased died in his 42d year.—St. Louis Democrat.

—We clip the following items from the Cincinnati Chronicle of Saturday: We are sorry to learn of the serious illness of Mr. Harry M. Millar, formerly of this paper, and a son of C. D. Millar, Esq., of the Commercial, is lying seriously ill up in Kanawha Valley. His father left a day or two ago to bring him home.... Mr. John Steward, a well-known Pittsburgh pilot, arrived in the city this morning, accompanied by his wife. After taking a look at the great Exposition, he will leave to-morrow for Memphis, and from thence he will go down the Mississippi to take a look at the river.

—Capt. Greenlees' little steamer Florence sunk at Ovide St. Andre's woodyard, two miles below Montgomery, La., on Thursday, September 20th. She was valued at $12,000, and insured for $7,000. She had on board at the time of her accident, 27 bales of cotton and 100 head of cattle, and cabin full of passengers, and no lives were lost.

—The steamer Silver Bow, bound from St. Louis to Memphis, struck a snag at one o'clock Friday afternoon, near Price's Landing, Missouri, and sunk in five feet of water. She lies straight, and it is thought can be raised. The wrecking-boat Eckert goes to her assistance.

—The J. C. Crossley, Tom Hackney and Oella are the boats now running between Portsmouth and Gallipolis, and the Vesta is running from Catlettsburg to Guyandotte. The Wildboy is running in place of the Chesapeake above Portsmouth.

—The wharfage tax matter is being discussed at New Albany. The wharfage is not exorbitant there, as it is levied on the advalorem plan, but it should be repealed by all means.

—The sale of the Southern Dock, at Algiers, was completed on the 16th. The bid offered was $15,000, and it is now owned by D. H. Conner and others, with D. H. Conner as manager.

—We understand that Capt. Hodson and the other owners of the Dick Fulton have sold that steamer to parties from the Kentucky River. We could not learn the price.

—The Greenback has again begun work on the wreck lying at the Evansville wharf.

—The Leslie Combs, having been condemned, is now being wrecked at Ironton.

CONVERTING U.S. Five-Twenties

Messrs. JAY COOKE & CO. have issued the following financial circular relative to the general conditions of the loan market, and the exchanging of Government bonds for Railroad securities:

OFFICE OF JAY COOKE & CO., PHILADELPHIA, September, 1871.

The signal success of the New Five Per Cent. Government Loan foreshadows the early funding of the entire debt at a less rate than 6 per cent., and indicates that the average rate of interest on loanable capital in this country will henceforward be considerably lower than it has been, the tendency being to an equalization of rates between America and Europe.

In view of these facts, the present holders of United States Five-Twenties must decide whether it is not best to make at once such a change of investment as will enable them to realize a profit, or add to their capital, the present average premium of 14 per cent. on Five-Twenties, while at the same time largely increasing their annual income.

Holders of Five-Twenties of the issues of 1862 which, under the recent announcement of the Secretary of the Treasury, will be paid off in December next, have special and immediate reason to consider the question of conversion, unless they wish to receive coin for their Five-Twenties, or exchange them at par for bonds of the new issue, bearing an average rate of 4½ per cent.

To all holders of United States securities who wish to take advantage of the present most favorable opportunity for changing their investment at a large profit we strongly recommend Northern Pacific Seven-Thirties (principal and interest payable in gold,) now selling at par in currency. The results already accomplished in the construction and equipment of nearly Three Hundred Miles of road, and the rapid development of the adjacent country, have established the permanence and success of the Northern Pacific enterprise, and created a large and rapidly increasing demand for the First Mortgage Bonds of the Company. With their high rate of interest, ample security, and their convertability into the Lands of the Company at 10 per cent. premium, they constitute a most desirable investment, and can hardly fail to advance considerably above par at an early day.

The holder of a $1000 Five-Twenty bond who exchanges it now for Northern Pacifics, thereby increases his principal by 14 per cent., receiving $1140 in Northern Pacifics for $1000 in Five-Twenties. He also permanently increases the yearly interest income on his investment more than 38 per cent., or from $50.00 in gold to $83.22 in gold.

Funds invested in Five-Twenties at their present premium, yield 5¼ per cent. interest in gold or 5 9-10 in currency. Northern Pacific Seven-Thirties yield 7 3-10 per cent. in gold or 8½ in currency.

These most unusual opportunities for the profitable conversion of Government Bonds into Corporate Securities of undoubted reliability, cannot, in the nature of the case, long continue. The increasing abundance of loanable capital both at home and abroad; the almost certain rise in value of all desirable railroad mortgages, the rapid absorption of Northern Pacific Seven-Thirties and the probable early substitution of a six per cent. bond for the remainder of the Northern Pacific loan, and the early funding of the remainder of the National Debt at lower rates, promise very soon to change the entire aspect of the loan market, which is just now so peculiarly favorable to investors.

This state of things suggests prompt action on the part of those who wish to exchange securities in time to profit by the present high premium on Five-Twenties.

Domestic Flannels.

Messrs. Arbuthnot, Shannon & Co., 115 Wood street, are the sole agents in these cities for Fullerton's and the Greenville barred flannels. They have at present some of the most beautiful specimens of these domestic fabrics that we have ever seen. It would be difficult to distinguish between them and the imported articles, as the retail merchants are all free to acknowledge. The samples we saw yesterday felt more like velvet than flannel. The fall trade has now fully set in, and all hands are as busy as bees at 115 Wood street, attending to the numerous customers, who are making heavy drafts on every line of goods in the establishment. But the stock is being daily replenished by fresh arrivals. Let those who stand in need of the articles examine those domestic flannels.

Dr. William's Card, the Truth Will Out.

It will be remembered that it was published some time ago in the Post that Dr. N. H. Williams was refused a vote at Washington, Pa., on account of not being registered; which was not true. Dr. Williams was registered at the Court House long before the election, in the presence of R. Baker, and other witnesses, he then visited Brownsville, Uniontown, Mt. Pleasant and Smithfield, returned thence to Brownsville, where he waved his meeting, and proceeded 25 miles to Washington to vote; on his arrival he was informed that a party there said a nigger was harbored in town for the purpose of voting, and if he did vote the house would be burned down. Whereupon the doctor told them to feel easy on that subject, for he would not trouble the polls, as they had taken two lives already. This is the true reason Doctor Williams did not vote.

Pullman Palace Cars between Pittsburgh and Baltimore.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company, we are glad to learn, and the travelling public will be glad to learn, has put "Pullman Palace Cars" on its line between Pittsburgh and Baltimore, starting on the "Philadelphia Express" train at 6:05 P. M., and westward on the "Pacific Express" train, leaving Baltimore at 10:10 P. M. The Pullman cars will not be detached at Harrisburg, but will proceed by the "Northern Central" to Baltimore. Travellers between Baltimore and Pittsburgh and further west will find this route henceforward to be one of the most attractive and pleasant in the whole country. The "Pullman's" will doubtless run also between Baltimore and Washington as soon as the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad, now approaching completion, under the energetic management of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, shall reach the capital.

Brunot's Indian Council.

We take the following from the Portland, Oregon, Christian Advocate:

The Hon. Felix R. Brunot, Chairman of the Board of Indian Commissioners, recently held a council with the Indians of the Tulalip Reservation, on Puget Sound. He gave the Indians an address full of sound, practical advice. In reply, the Chief, Napoleon, came forward dressed in his best, a stately, fine looking honest old Indian chief. Advancing with much dignity, he laid before Mr. Brunot a bundle of sticks, and with genuine eloquence, said: "Those represent the number of my people killed during the past year; fifteen of them, killed by whisky sold to them by bad white men and those bad white men have not been punished for it." His address was to the point, practical, and full of good common sense, and he spoke with the earnestness of one who feels his cause is just. Several others spoke; the conference lasting, until it was time for the boat to leave.

Beaver Falls.

BEAVER FALLS, PA., Sept., 29, 1871.

EDITORS GAZETTE.—Gentlemen.—Most of the people who take an interest in politics, have a preference among all the long list of persons named as probable candidates for the next Presidential election. The East has probably two dozen, who would like the office of President, and as many more for Vice President. New York could give us a dozen at least, and the West is full of them. In our own State we have quite a number of very able men who could fill either of the offices. But we must look to availibility, as well as to the other pre-requisites usually considered as necessary for such high offices. And as one who expects to vote and be subject to the rule or misrule of the ensuing term of four years, I will make my nomination through your paper: For President, A. E. Burnside, of Rhode Island; for Vice President, G. A. Grow, of Pennsylvania—the soldier and citizen, the ability, the popularity, the availibility, all combined. And we could elect them.

PRESIDENT GRANT.

His Proposed Visit To-morrow—Preparations for His Reception—Meeting of Citizens at the Mayor's Office—The Lincoln Club—The Military and Fire Organizations to Turn Out, &c.

Reliable information having been received, in the shape of dispatches from President Grant, that he would arrive in the city on Wednesday morning at ten o'clock via the Pan Handle Railroad, the several meetings held last evening took action accordingly.

CITIZENS' RECEPTION COMMITTEE.

The Citizens Reception Committee met last evening at half-past seven o'clock in the Controller's office.

General Negley, the Chairman, being absent, on motion of J. M. Gazzam Esq., His Honor, Mayor Brush, was called to the chair.

The chair stated the object of the meeting—the reception of President Grant.

Mr. Phelps said invitations had been extended to all our local military organizations and that proper orders would be published in the morning papers. It was not necessary therefore to take action here with regard to the communication just read.

NO CASTE.

Colored Children Admitted to Schools.

On Saturday evening last, the School Board of the Fourteenth ward, held a special meeting, at which it was agreed to admit children of color into the public schools of that district. The circumstances which led to the taking of definite action upon the subject, by the Board, were these. A colored man had several times applied to each of the members of the Board, excepting Mr. Arthurs, who was absent, for a permit for his children to attend the sessions of the school, and was refused in each case. When Mr. A. returned he was waited upon him, for the same purpose, informing him of his refusal from the others. Mr. Arthurs, however, gave him the permit, and the meeting was called for the purpose of revoking that action, as well as censuring Mr. Arthurs for the same. Upon Mr. Arthurs explanation of the circumstances, it was agreed that he had not intended to slight the Board, by granting the permit after their refusal, and therefore, that he was not deserving of censure. It was then moved that the permit be revoked. Although the four members of the Board, at first seemed to favor this action before the vote was taken, two of them came over to the side of Mr. Arthurs and the motion was lost. The children are now attending the school.

Evangelical Low Church Meeting.

To the Editors of Pittsburgh Gazette,

In your issue of September 29th, appears what purports to be a report of a meeting of Low-Churchmen at St. Andrew's church.

Permit me to state for the information of your readers who may be interested, that your article is not so much a report of the meeting as a criticism upon it. Your reporter, evidently one of the "two clergymen of well-known high churchmanship" who, though uninvited, were present, has given you a very incomplete and hence incorrect report of the proceedings. He has omitted entirely a notice of the speeches of Messrs. Bailey and Woodward, and has reported only such parts of Rev. Mr. Byllsby's and my own, as suited his purpose.

The meeting was small in point of numbers, it is true. There were thirteen all told, precisely the same number of men who gathered once in an upper room at Jerusalem, and one of them was a traitor.

Trusting to your courtesy for the publication of this letter,
I am yours, truly,
JOSEPH D. WILSON.

[We freely give place to Mr. Wilson's critique on our report of the Evangelical Low Church meeting held at St. Andrews Church, published in Saturday's GAZETTE. It is due, however, to our reporter, to say that the speeches of Messrs. Woodward and Bailey referred to the appointment of delegates to the general Convention and not to the Memorial; they were not germain to the object for which the meeting was called, and therefore, properly not included in our report of the meeting. The other speeches were reported as correctly as possible consistently with the brevity required by our crowded columns, and we think in the judgment of those who were present, gave a fair idea of the sentiments of the speakers. If our Reverend correspondent meant to intimate that our reporter was like the traitor who was at the supper in the upper room of Simon the Leper at Jerusalem, he greatly errs, as he, the reporter, fulfilled none of the signs by which the "betrayer was to be known." He neither kissed the Chief One in the meeting, nor dipped his hand in the dish with them, nor were lots cast over the vesture of the betrayed one of the St. Andrews sanhedrim.]—ED.

The Rink.

The great attraction of the week is the Grand Fair and Industrial Exhibition, now being held at the Rink in Allegheny. The attendance yesterday was very large, and the visitors seemed highly delighted. The goods on exhibition make a very handsome display, and include many articles of the finest description. The chief feature, however, is in the department of fine arts, where the celebrated painting, by H. C. Bispham, formerly of New York, and now in Italy, entitled the "Cavalry charge at Gettysburg," is now on exhibition. This magnificent picture is in size 5½x10 feet, and cost originally $1,175, besides the cost of the frame, $200. It is pronounced on all hands the greatest of American paintings. Go and see it.

GRAND REPUBLICAN RALLY.

Politics in Lawrenceville—Mass Meeting in the Seventeenth Ward—Enthusiastic Assemblage—Stirring Speeches by H. H. McCormick, Esq., Major A. M. Brown and Dr. Hermann Meier.

A large and enthusiastic concourse of citizens assembled at the Seventeenth ward, (Lawrenceville) school house, last evening.

The meeting was called to order at half-past seven o'clock, by George R. Pearson, Esq., who nominated J. J. Covert, M. D., as President of the meeting and the following persons as Vice Presidents: Messrs. Joseph Mitchell, William Smith, Wm. M. Pearson, Jno. Graitge, John J. Soutterly, Thomas B. Stewart, C. F. Klopfer, G. W. Nichols, Esq., G. R. Pearson, Jas. F. McClure, John Naser, James Campbell, John Kiel, Sr., S. W. Reynolds, S. Swingston, Chas. North, Capt. Ed. Evans, W. Bailey. Secretaries—E. F. Pearson, D. Bell and the reporters of the press. The gentlemen named were all unanimously elected.

Dr. Covert upon taking the chair, in a few well timed words, thanked the gentlemen present for the honor conferred upon him, and paid a glowing tribute to the Republican party, briefly alluding to its noble efforts in the past, its brilliant prospects for success in the present campaign and its duties future, in the work of elevating mankind and maintaining the principles of freedom and truth.

REMARKS OF MR. M'CORMICK.

H. H. McCormick Esq., was then introduced by the President. Said he, in discussing the issues of this campaign, cannot separate them from the issues of the memorable campaign of '68. The momentous question now before the people is the financial question. We have already fought and won the battles upon all other issues that have been brought out since the closing of the war. The Republican party has always stood fairly upon this question. In the campaign of '68 the Republican party asked for the suffrages of citizens, professing that they would honestly correct the revenues of the country and honestly appropriate them to the payment of the national debt. Has this promise been kept? The enormous amount that has been saved in the administration of affairs, is the only answer needed to that question. An annual diminution of eighty-four millions and a half has been made to the national debt of the country during the present administration. It had been charged by the Democratic party that the Collectors of Internal Revenue have stolen $25,000,000. He was here to-night for the purpose of refuting that statement. The official reports show that the whole amount that has been withheld since the origination of the system, by all Collectors—even, including those appointed by President Johnson—does not make $3,000,000, and for this the Government still holds the bonds of those officials. The speaker's theory was to hold each party to its record. If its record be good, then retain it in power, if not, then let its representatives be removed from authority. It is the sentiment of the Republican party and the voice of the Republican press that when one of its members defraud the country or receive a greater compensation than is his due, that he be brought before the people and be compelled to refund his ill-gotten gains. But where can you find the Democrat who finds fault with the stealings of Tammany? They cry out at the expenditures that Republican rule in Pittsburgh has made in the erection of a City Hall, but when eleven or twelve million of dollars is swallowed up in repairing a New York Court House it is all right. The speaker also alluded to the New Departure, which he claimed to be a farce—a dodge to gain recruits from the Republican ranks.

The President then introduced

MAJ. A. M. BROWN,

who complimented the people of the Seventeenth ward upon their firmness and steadfastness to the principles of the Republican party, in the past, and said he did not fear but that in the coming contest they would put their votes into the ballot box, against their political enemies, as in the past, many of them had used their bullets against the foes of their country. We know what the New Departure means—we know what Democratic rule means anywhere. As the rebel soldiers, during the war, sometimes clothed themselves in the disguise of the Union soldiery, to gain needed information, so the Democrats are now attempting to clothe themselves in the garb of the Republican party to gain needed votes. It is a dodge to win votes; it is a ruse to regain power. The Republican party having won the control of the nation and having purified it and elevated it in the eyes of the whole world, deserve to retain their hold upon the reins of government. The speaker reviewed briefly the Democratic record during the rebellion. While there had been many noble Union Democrats, yet where was the rebel during that bloody struggle who was not a Democrat before. No Republican ever leveled his gun or pointed his bayonet against the defenders of his country. Coming down to the Democracy of to-day, he reviewed in a scathing manner the Tammany administration of the municipal affairs in New York. He concluded with a glowing tribute to the Republican party, its history and its achievements; the party which we are called upon to desert, the party which is said to have fulfilled its mission and to be ready to die. Ready to die, indeed! Why the Republican party is only in its youth it is not yet twenty-one years of age. But it has fought and won the battles, thus far it has scaled the mountain to its highest peak and now it will not surrender its position to those who accomplished their ascent by clinging to our coat-tails.

DR. HERMANN MEIER,

of the editorial staff of the Freiheit's Freund, was next introduced. The address of Dr. Meier being intended more particularly for the ears of his countrymen from the Fatherland, was for the most part given in the German language, although it was interspersed with occasional passages of choice English and sound Republicanism. The speaker referred to the ticket selected by the so-called National Society; the ticket with two hearts in one breast beating in contradiction to each other; the amphibious ticket; the amalgamated ticket, composed of Democrats and Republicans, nominated by sixteen delegates never delegated, save by themselves, who chose nineteen candidates, giving to the Democratic party the positions of the greatest political influence. But their ticket had fallen cold upon the German people, and he was in favor of having it recorded in the next mortuary report under the expressive heading "still-born." There could be but one kind of Republicanism, in his opinion. He was for one Union, first, with one President at the head of government, and, just as much, he was for one Republican party, but one, alone and indivisible. The speaker was frequently interrupted with applause by his German hearers, who heard him with marked interest and appreciation.

The exercises were interspersed and enlivened with some excellent music by the brass band under the leadership of Mr. Sebastian Daupp, and the proceedings throughout were quite as harmonious as well as enthusiastic in the highest degree.

THE NEW STEAMBOAT LAW.

Meeting of Steamboat Men—They Object to the New Law—And Take Definite Action—An Appeal to be made to Congress.

Yesterday afternoon a meeting of steamboatmen was held at the office of the Citizens' Insurance Company, to consider the new steamboat law which was passed at the last session of Congress. It appears that the bill, which seems to be highly objectionable, was somehow quietly "slipped through" and became a law before the vigilance of those who had especially been commissioned to watch it, had discovered where it was.

The meeting of yesterday was presided over by Hon. James S. Negley, with Capt. C. L. Brannon acting as Secretary.

When the meeting was thus organized, an informal discussion ensued upon the merits and demerits of the law,—chiefly of its demerits—which seems to be considered unusually onerous by steamboatmen. It appears that the law compels owners of all floating craft to provide certain "extras" for the security of persons on the boat, which will necessitate an additional expense of about $1,000 in each boat, and it is contended, all useless at that. Then when the provisions are all completed, even in every detail, the owners are held liable to a criminal prosecution should any accident occur, thus in effect making them responsible for any accident from wind, or water, fire or explosion, although every requirement of the most stringent law is observed. It is not pleasant to have the penitentiary always in view, and naturally enough steamboatmen object to any enactment which presents this institution to them, although they may comply with its most stringent requirement. A third and perhaps most iniquitous feature, it is contended is the fact that the Supervising Inspectors are vested with discretionary powers, and can at any time decide what each boat shall have, in fact they become the law itself, their dictation being the authority to which steamboatmen may license. Thus an owner of a floating craft is never sure, even when he has supplied his property with every appliance designated in the law, but that he may be required to make a change to suit the Supervisor's whims.

The attendants at the meeting yesterday represented in a large measure, the steamboat interests of Pittsburgh, and the measured contempt with which the odious enactment was spoken indicated that here at least, it was not popular. In Cincinnati and St. Louis the same feeling existed, and those interested are already at work preparing to have the matter brought properly before the next Congress. It seems that the law theoretically is in force now, but will not be so practically until next February. The discretionary power of fixing the time for its practical enforcement is left with the Secretary of the Treasury, who has fixed next February. It is now the intention of steamboat owners to have the time extended until the matter can be brought up before Congress and a new law prepared which will be acceptable to all. To this end in Cincinnati, a Committee has been appointed to take the business into consideration and in conjunction with others, to prepare an acceptable bill.

The matter was thoroughly canvassed yesterday by our Pittsburgh steamboat owners, at the meeting, after which Captains W. C. Brannon, W. J. Kountz, J. T. Stockdale, Jas. Rees and R. C. Gray were appointed a committee to confer with the committees from Cincinnati and St. Louis in the preparation of the new act and adoption of measures to prevent the present obnoxious one going into practical effect. A series of resolutions were also adopted, strongly condemnatory of the "new law," and in which Congress was urged to repeal it. Gen. Negley was also authorized to proceed to Washington and lay the matter before the Board of Supervising Inspectors, the annual session of which will commence there to-day.

The meeting then adjourned subject to the call of the chairman of the committee.

Death of an Estimable Lady.

In our obituary columns on Saturday we noted the death of Mrs. Mary Ann Ackerman, an estimable and beloved lady, who departed life quite suddenly, from heart disease, at her residence in Stewartstown on Thursday last. The deceased was largely known and universally respected, being a lady of great intelligence and the possessor of many noble qualities of the head and heart. She was kind, generous, good and charitable, and throughout a long life sustained a most enviable reputation as a Christian lady, a fond and loving wife and mother, and earnest friend and noble woman. She was the mother-in-law of Charles E. Hook, Esq., the well known conductor on the Allegheny Valley Railroad, and as he feelingly says, she was a true and faithful mother to him. Her funeral was perhaps the largest ever held in the neighborhood of Stewartsville. The memory of the good and just liveth long, and it will be many, many years before Mrs. Ackerman will be forgotten by her now sorrowing friends and relatives.

Accident on the Railroad.

A serious accident occurred on the Connellsville Railroad on Saturday, a short distance above Port Perry, which may, and very likely will, prove fatal. A man named George Ciscow, a butcher, was lying on the track when the express train came along and struck him in the head throwing him to one side of the track and making two serious wounds on the side of his head. He was picked up and placed in the baggage car, taken to the station and medical aid was summoned immediately. He is a man about fifty years of age, and has a wife and three children. It is said that he was seen about a half an hour before the accident in the village, very much under the influence of liquor.

THE spire of Trinity church is about finished. It is neat, graceful and light. By the way, we think that aside, from the other proud titles applied to our city, we deserve pre-eminently that of the city of steeples. From any point we can show more church spires than can any other city in the land.

The police pay-roll, amounting to $9,119.45, and monthly bills, $273.50, were presented and warrants ordered. Clerk Patterson stated he had been unable to prepare his monthly statement, but would have it ready to-day.

STREET beggars are multiplying in our city since the changing seasons come round, and the army promises to grow for some time to come. There are many deserving people among this class, while there are many who are unworthy, undeserving and are the worst kind of imposters. The finest discrimination should be exercised in the bestowal of alms, that the needy and deserving only should receive aid at the hands of the public.

THE TRIPARTITE BRIDGE.

Subscriptions to Stock Yesterday—An Assured Success—A Good Four Hours Work—Nearly One-half of the Required Amount Taken.

The tripartite bridge project is an enterprise which has now assumed a substantial basis, and the structure itself, judging from the events of yesterday, will before long be a fixed fact. Yesterday the books of subscription were opened at the banking house of Robinson Bros., Fourth avenue, and the manner in which the subscriptions came in, gave the heartiest assurance that the enterprise had attracted the attention of capitalists, and that the money to push it forward to completion could be had. The books were opened at eleven o'clock, and from that until the close of Banking hours—just four hours—there was a rush sufficient to engage the exclusive attention of the Secretary and Treasurer. The subscriptions ranged from two shares to one thousand, the aggregate, amounting to $313,000, which is nearly half of the capital stock. Large and small capitalists equally seemed to be anxious to invest, and the result was exceedingly gratifying especially to those interested in the enterprise.

The character of the subscribers may be judged from an examination of the list, from which the following examples have been taken: John Moorhead, 100 shares; R. S. Sutton, 600; J. T. Wood, 200; James Caldwell, 200; McCord & Co.; 100; James S. McCord, 100; John B. McCane, 100; Joseph Horne, 100; Robinson Bros., 100; Charles S. Armstrong, 100; Dr. A. G. Walter, 100; James Brown, Sr., 100; W. S. Jackson, 100; B. B. Shea, 50; John McDermitt, 50; J. B. Jackson, 50, and others ranging down to two shares. The par value of a share is $50.

The result was certainly in the highest degree encouraging and attested that the stock is destined to become one of our most popular securites.

The Books will be reopened this morning at ten o'clock and there is every prospect that the rush will in no wise be diminished. A number of our heaviest capitalists, who are known to favor the enterprise, were not on hand yesterday, but their subscriptions are expected, and this morning, and it is thought the whole will be taken, perhaps before the day closes. The success thus far has been unprecedented hereabouts in any new enterprise, and those interested in the project have reason to be congratulated.

MEETING OF Y. M. M. LIBRARY.

Adoption of Constitution.

Last evening the members of the Mercantile Library Association held their quarterly meeting, and were called to order at eight o'clock by President H. M. Long, Esq., with Geo. I. Whitney, Esq., Secretary.

Mr. Long, as chairman of the Committee on Revision of the Constitution, presented the report, which after being read and discussed at length, was approved as amended.

The committee reported adversely to the continuance of the right to vote by proxy, but the Association voted this amendment down, and adhered to the proxy system.

The Treasurer of the Association, who gives bonds for the security of the funds in his hands, was made ex-officio, a member of the Lecture Committee and the treasurer also of that body.

By the new Constitution, six of the officers hold over, leaving six to be elected each year. Other changes were made but these were the most important.

The meeting was quite large and much interest was manifested in the proceedings. The constitution approved last night must be ratified at the annual meeting in January next before it becomes finally adopted and binding.

THE LATEST.

Wm. Fleming & Co.'s Hat, Cap and Fur Emporium—Great Reduction in Prices—Goods from 15 to 20 per cent. Cheaper Than at Any Other House.

It is a well established fact in all kinds of business that purchasers will go where they can get the best article for the least money, and will, whenever it is possible, deal with men in whom they have confidence, to which fact may be attributed the great success of the hat and fur house of Wm. Fleming & Co., No. 139 Wood street. The people having ascertained that they can purchase anything in the hat or fur line from 15 to 20 per cent. cheaper than at any other house, and knowing that Mr. Fleming and all the salesmen employed in the house represent the goods to be just what they are, and nothing more, have no fears of being cheated or defrauded out of their money, hence the great rush at this popular establishment. Their stock of goods this fall, including hats, caps and furs, is the largest and best ever brought to this market, and having been purchased at a bargain by Mr. Fleming, who is one of the most judicious buyers in the city, his patrons reap the benefit of his experience. The great attraction in the hat line at this establishment is the "Tourist," the neatest hat of the season, and it is having an immense run. The stock of furs embraces everything in the line from the finest mink sable down to an imitation, so that all tastes can be suited. Call and examine the stock, as the season for furs is now at hand.

It is the unanimous opinion of those who saw the beginning of the fires at 68 Fifth avenue and at Harris & Ewing's Drug Store that they could easily have been put out with a Babcock Fire Extinguisher, and thus all the damage by water prevented.

Our prediction for September was, "that from the 31st of August till the last week in September, we would have prevailing northerly winds, with dry and cool weather, and that during last week in Sept., we would have prevailing westerly winds, that much less rain would fall than in the month of August, and that the tempest would be very considerably reduced. We had hoped that by 21st, we might have local rains, produced by thunder storms, but although occasionally it appeared very threatening, the atmosphere being of a yellow hazy appearance, with at times perfectly overcast, a rising every indication of a storm; still the weather kept as dry and cool as predicted.

In regard to the prediction of a hurricane in the track of the Gulf stream and W. J. islands, from the S. E. from the 19th to the 23d of September, we can scarcely expect any report before the first week in October. We will therefore make a statement of such facts as can be obtained, in our next report.

The prevailing winds for the month of October will be westerly. Dry weather may be anticipated throughout the month, with occasional rains from the 15th or 18th till the last week in October. Heavy storms may be anticipated from the 17th or 18th till the 24th or 25th from the E. and S. W. The coldest days will be from the 13th to the 21st.

The prospects for a rise in the river of any extent during the months of October, November and December are very unfavorable. The only probabilities of a rise are from the 18th of October until the 19th of November and middle of December. Still there is little encouragement to look for a rise of any consequence during the present year.

We notice that some have been making predictions of a very severe winter. The indications are, that we will have a very mild winter and early spring.

As to the prediction of a "great tidal wave on the 4th of October, we might say that there are no indications of anything of the kind, but on the contrary, pleasant weather with northwesterly winds.

DELIBERATE MURDER.

Another Tragedy in Beaver County—A Quarrel at a Gambling Table Results in Homicide.

Sunday afternoon the quiet village of New Brighton was startled by a murder of a terrible character. The victim was a notorious character named Warham C. Grant, about thirty years of age, and the assassin one James Murray. The affair occurred at the grog-shop and gambling-hell kept by Mrs. Harriet Murray, or Harkinson, mother of the murderer. The parties were engaged in playing cards at the time, and had a dispute, which resulted in Murray, in the coolest and most deliberate manner, shooting Grant with a shot gun loaded with slugs. The injured man lived until seven o'clock yesterday morning, when he expired. Murray fled to the woods, where he was captured and brought back, and committed by Justice Glass. After Grant's death, an information for murder was made against the prisoner. A search of the house in which the tragedy occurred revealed a quantity of stolen goods, which were identified, and a charge of larceny preferred against Mrs. Murray.

Clerical Change.

The Rev. Wm. M. Young, pastor of the Union Baptist Church, Grant street, tendered his resignation last Lord's day. Many were unprepared to hear it read, as it is well known a remarkable degree of peace and harmony has followed him in his ministry with his people since he came to this city. It seems, however, that his resignation is based upon the desire to see the denomination extend its influence in this community. To plant a Baptist Church in East Liberty, and strengthen their weak points, would take away quite a portion of strength from his church, and also from the First Baptist Church. It is desirable to unite the two churches together, the Union and the First, in order that one strong church may be secured, instead of two weak ones. Hence Mr. Young determined to resign, in order that this end might be attained.

He will go to Oil City, at the urgent request of the church, for twelve months. He has refused other appointments to settle in other and larger fields, in order that he might give Oil City a year's labor.

Mr. Young had by his talents, piety and zeal in all church work endeared himself not only to his own congregation but also to the Pastors and people of other denominations in this city. The good people of Oil City are fortunate in the prospect of his presence and labors among them, if for only one year. We predict that if he must then leave them it will be against much expostulation and remonstrances, he will be loved and esteemed wherever he labors.

THACKERAY.

Richard Henry Stoddart has written many poems, which he has recently collected into a volume which is shortly to be published in Boston. Among them is the following graceful eulogy of the great English author.

ADSUM.
(DECEMBER 23-24, 1863.)

I.

The angel came by night,
(Such angels still come down!)
And like a winter cloud
Passed over London town;
Along its lonesome streets,
Where want had ceased to weep,
Until it had reached a house
Where a great man lay asleep—
The man of all his time
Who knew the most of men—
The soundest head and heart,
The sharpest, kindest pen.
It paused beside his bed,
And whispered in his ear;
He never turned his head,
But answered: "I am here."

II.

Into the night they went;
At morning, side by side,
They gained the sacred place
Where the great Dead abide;
Where grand old Homer sits
In god-like state benign;
Where broods in endless thought
The awful Florentine;
Where sweet Cervantes walks,
A smile on his grave face;
Where gossips quaint Montaigne,
The wisest of his race;
Where Goethe looks through all,
With that calm eye of his;
Where—little seen but Light—
The only Shakspeare is!
When the new Spirit came,
They asked him, drawing near,
"Art thou become like us?"
He answered: "I am here."

CORALS have been discovered in Littleton, New Hampshire, by Professor C. H. Hitchcock, the State geologist. The discovery is all the more worthy of note from the fact that the rocks of New Hampshire, which are mostly of a granitic character, have been supposed to be entirely destitute of fossils.
